Thousands Pay Tribute To Senator

Grand Jury Asked To Indict Sirhan On Murder Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County Grand Jury met today to hear 23 witnesses and consider a first degree murder indictment against a young Jordanian in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, was not present as the 22 grand jurors met on the fifth floor of the Hall of Justice. He is jailed under constant surveillance in a maximum security cell.

Jury foremen L. E. McKee, a retired garage man from near-by Long Beach, said before the hearing began: "The jury is made up of persons from all walks of life, creeds and colors and I feel that after we have heard all the evidence and deliberated a fair decision will be rendered."

The jury also was asked to return indictments for assault with intent to commit murder in the wounding of five others in the burst of gunfire that killed Kennedy early last Wednesday just after he proclaimed his triumph in the California Democratic presidential primary election.

The grand jury was composed of 13 women and 9 men. One jury member was absent due to illness. The foreman said a vote of 14 is required for an indictment.

Heading the presentation to jurors was Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger, who requested the indictment.

Younger said Sirhan would then be arraigned in person within 48 hours in Superior Court, make a plea at that time or shortly after, with trial expected to begin within 60 days from that time. Should the defense seek a change of venue, Younger said he would not oppose it.

The public defender's office is providing Sirhan legal advice.

The prisoner originally was held under $250,000 bond, but that was revoked by Superior Court Judge Joan Dempsey Klein after Kennedy's death. California law permits no bond in a murder case.

In addition to the murder indictment, Younger said he would ask five additional indictments in the wounding of five others who were in Kennedy's vicinity at 12:17 a.m. Wednesday morning at the Ambassador Hotel.

Coroner Aide Fixes Cause of Senator's Death

Bullet Reached Center of Brain; Damage 'Severe'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It may be days or weeks before the full medical story of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassination is told, but one fact apparently has been established: Death was due to a bullet in the brain.

The coroner's chief medical examiner said Thursday after a six-hour autopsy: "The cause of death was ascribed by me as gunshot wound of the right mastoid penetrating the brain."

Dr. Thomas T. Noguchi told newsmen that pieces of the bullet and the mastoid bone behind the right ear "severely damaged the main portion of the right side of the brain and reached about the center of the brain."

He said the damage was so extensive "it could not help but cause death" but he would not speculate on reports the senator was partly paralyzed during the 25 hours he clung to life after the shooting Wednesday.

Noguchi said routine tests of brain tissue and vital organs removed during the autopsy would continue for days or even weeks but he was confident they would not change his decision on the cause of death.

"Quite a few fragments of the bullet were still in the brain," Noguchi said. Surgeons who operated on Kennedy shortly after the shooting reported they had obtained all but one fragment.

"It is remarkable that the at-

Two Figures Eyed To Succeed Bobby

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The names of former Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and Rep. Ogden R. Reid have been raised in speculation over whom Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will name as a successor to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the Senate.

While Rockefeller and other political leaders declined to discuss the impending appointment publicly, there was substantial private reflection on the subject Thursday at the Capitol.

Rockefeller's press secretary, Leslie Sloate, said the Republican governor had "given no thought" to a successor to the slain Democratic senator.

Keating's name was among the first mentioned. The suggestion was that Rockefeller might wish to return him to the seat that Kennedy won from him in the 1964 election. Keating later was elected to the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, but has only two years to serve before reaching the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Reid, who represents a Westchester County district, has been personally close to Rockefeller for years and has occasionally advised him on political matters.

The 53-year-old congressman who was president of the old New York Herald Tribune is known to be interested in attaining higher office.

The person chosen by Rockefeller will serve the remainder of Kennedy's term, which ends Dec. 31, 1970. A senator would be elected for a new, six-year term in November 1970, to take office in January 1971.

Ted To Carry Tradition?

LONDON (AP)—British newspaper commentators predicted today that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will set his sights on the American presidency, carrying on the family tradition established by his two assassinated brothers.

British papers spread the 36-year-old Massachusetts senator's pictures across their pages and speculated on his chances of reaching the White House eventually.

"That he will now seek to carry on alone the political ambitions of the Kennedy family is regarded as certain," wrote Richard Scott of the Guardian.

EDWARD M. KENNEDY

"He has evoked none of the personal animosities which Bobby did," said Scott. "Whether he possesses Bobby's political acumen is perhaps not yet proven. His older brother, Jack, believed that he did."

"By now he has made a solid reputation for himself in the Senate as a modest, industrious and extremely well informed and well briefed member."

"He is more popular than Jack and Bobby ever were with his colleagues."

"Teddy is the longterm family contender for leadership of the world's most powerful nation," wrote Peter Youngusband in the Daily Mail.

Bear Loose Near Clifton

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—A black bear that at two years age weighed 443 pounds is loose in a wooded area between here and scenic Clifton Gorge, and scores of law enforcement officers, state conservation workers and others searched for the animal today.

George Grindle, who has a cabin at Clifton and who owns the bear, claims it is about 41 years of age, and that he has had it since it was a cub.

The bear, which escaped from its cage, normally is tame. But Grindle said he found the lock to the cage sawed off during the night and said he felt someone might have given it something "as it wasn't acting as it normally did."

The bear is reported to have chased several boys in the area before tumbling down a bank into the scenic and heavily wooded Clifton Gorge.

In the past the bear has performed for visitors at John Bryan State Park. Searchers sighted the animal early Friday in the gorge but were unable to catch it. Grindle hoped it would return home when it got hungry.

Roundtown

TED LEWIS celebrated his 78th birthday Thursday. Best wishes were extended to the famous entertainer and Roundtown native from his many friends here, according to Ben Gordon. Gordon noted today in response that a check for $600 was received from Ted for improvements and maintenance of Ted Lewis Park.

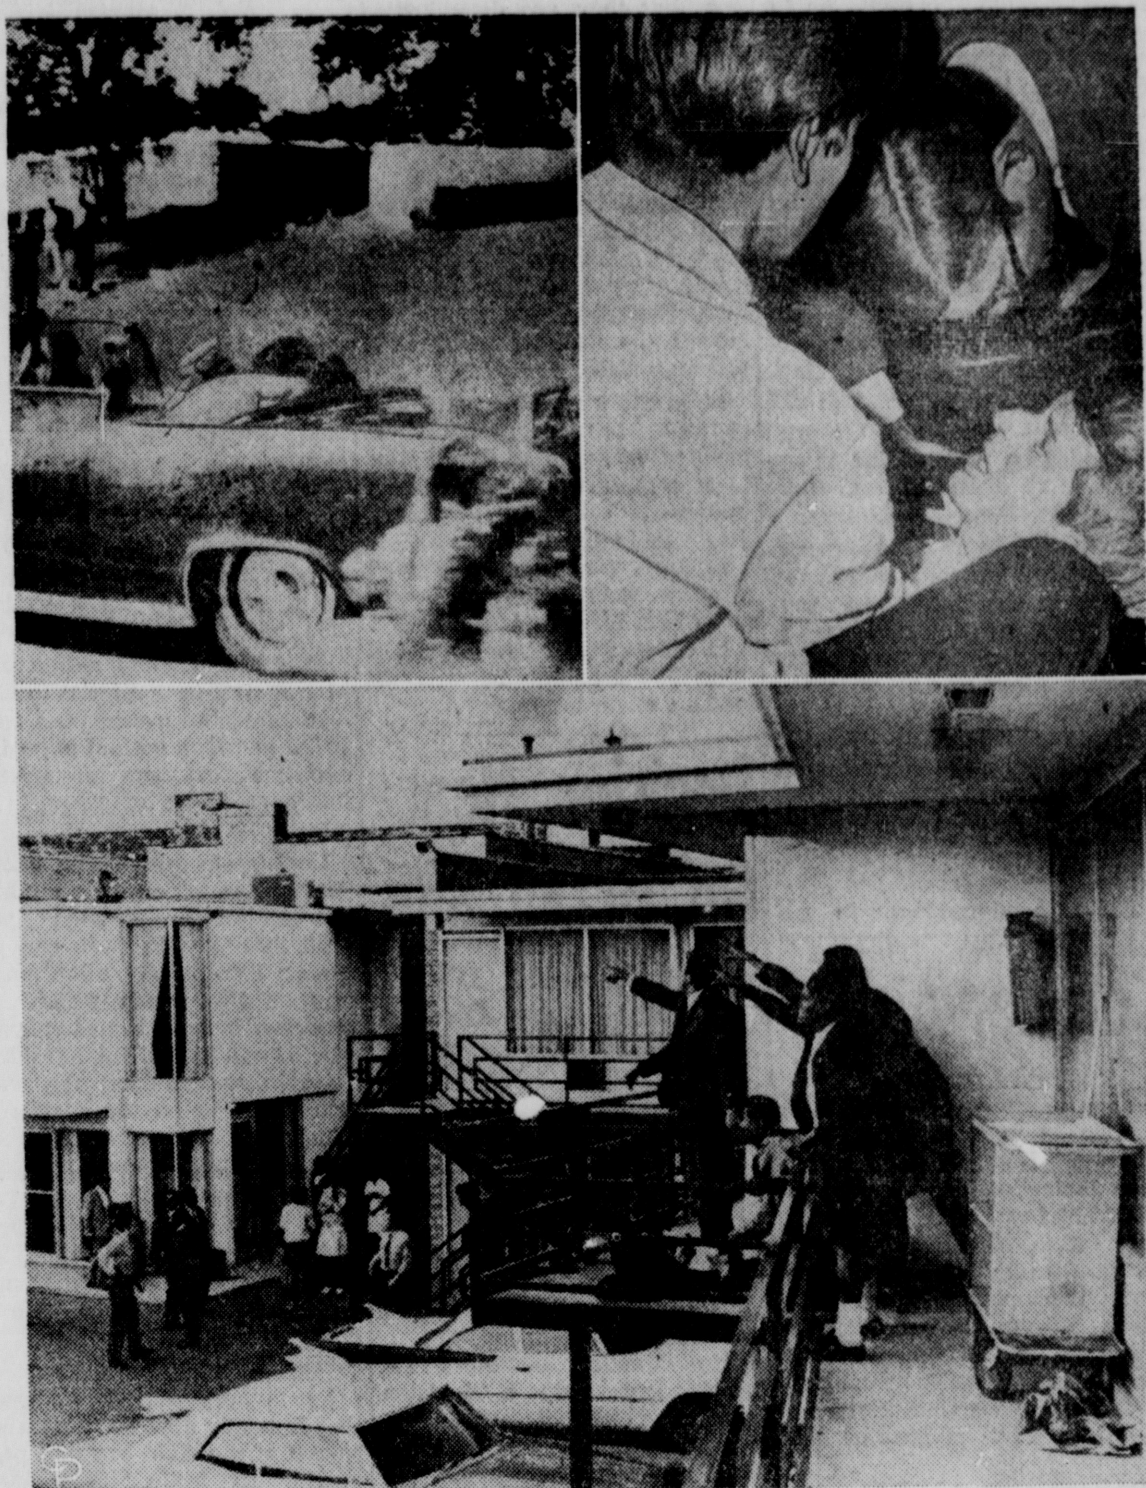

A LOCAL cafeteria is a popular place at lunchtime. While eavesdropping on a conversation at noon Thursday, a woman was overheard saying to her companion "If I eat lunch here any more often I'm going to get my name in the paper." The woman was Mrs. Mae Wolfe of Lancaster, sister of Mrs. Russ Palm of Route 4. It seems that she visits the Palms frequently and always ends up having lunch downtown with Mrs. Palm.

THREE-year-old Karen Giffen was the object of a frantic search at 11 p.m. Thursday. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Giffen of 376 Walnut St. decided it was bedtime at about 10:30. Her parents searched frantically for her when they realized she was missing. Police were summoned to join in the search. The child was found by Sgt. Rod List, sound asleep under a truck parked on Walnut St.

CITY Police celebrated Wesley Barton's birthday today. Patrolman Barton said he would have been 34 but he was sick for one year and is just 33.

THREE SHOTS HEARD 'ROUND THE WORLD — Three times in the last four and one-half years, the crack of an assassin's gun in the United States has stunned the world. On Nov. 22, 1963, mortally wounded President John F. Kennedy slumped into the arms of his wife, Jacqueline (top left), while riding in a motorcade in Dallas, Tex. Last April 4 in Memphis, Tenn., Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot fatally while standing on a balcony of a motor hotel (bottom). The latest victim of a shooting, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, a brother of the late president, was gunned down in a corridor (top right) of the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles.

'In Name of Sanity'

Johnson Pleads For Gun Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, speaking in the wake of a new Kennedy assassination, has told Congress that "55 long months after the mail-order murder of President John F. Kennedy," it is time in the name of sanity for a tough gun-control law.

He served notice Thursday that a measure passed by both Senate and House and now on his desk doesn't go far enough because it bans the mail-order sales of only of pistols. He wants the ban to apply to rifles and shotguns as well.

When it was in the Senate, such proponents of the tougher provision as Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., lost in their bid to include rifles and shotguns. Two of Dodd's staunchest allies in that losing cause were Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, whose brother was assassinated with a mail-order rifle five years ago, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, whose only surviving brother—Robert—was assassinated with a pistol two days ago.

"So, I call upon the Congress in the name of sanity, in the name of safety—and in the name of an aroused nation—to give America the gun-control law it needs," Johnson said.

The House passed the pistols-only provision Thursday and Johnson issued his statement shortly afterward. He did not indicate whether he would sign the provision.

Two congressmen urged him to veto it; another said he would propose next week a House vote on a measure to ban mail-order rifle and shotgun sales.

The only House vote this week on the issue concerned the pistols provision because that is the way the bill came from the Senate.

The gun-control proposal has been a matter of controversy on Capitol Hill for seven years but is only one of several controversial issues in the legislation sent to Johnson.

It is a sweeping crime-control bill that also would give police wiretapping and "bugging" powers regarding some suspects. Another provision is aimed at removing Supreme Court restrictions on police use of confessions.

The bill also would provide substantial federal aid to help local and state police improve efficiency. The President has expressed support only for full gun-control and the police aid provision. He proposed the latter; Sen. Edward Kennedy sponsored the rejected amendment for complete gun-control.

Opponents of the wiretap and confessions provisions have contended they raise serious constitutional questions.

Widow Says Yorty Welcome At Funeral

NEW YORK (AP) — A spokesman for Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy said today that Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles would be welcome at the funeral for the slain senator as the official representative of that city.

It was earlier reported that Mrs. Kennedy did not wish the mayor to attend the funeral. Several Democratic clubs also have urged him to stay away.

Frank Mankiewicz, press secretary to the late senator, said the Los Angeles City Council had appointed Yorty as official representative to the funeral and that he would be welcome.

Thomas Jardine, Yorty's press secretary, said Thursday that Sander Vanocur, an NBC television newsmen, had quoted Mrs. Kennedy as saying she preferred that Yorty not attend the funeral. Vanocur accompanied the Kennedy family and the senator's body on Thursday's flight from Los Angeles to New York.

Jardine said Yorty had no idea why Mrs. Kennedy should make such a comment and said "that Yorty 'is entirely confused about it.'"

Here is what Vanocur said, in part, on NBC about Mayor Yorty:

Solemn Crowd Gathers Around NYC Cathedral

Visitors from All Walks of Life File Past Casket

NEW YORK (AP) — Tens of thousands of persons from all walks of life filed mournfully past Robert F. Kennedy's body as it lay in state today before the main altar beneath the towering twin Gothic spires of St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue.

Six abreast, in a line stretching about 10 blocks to Grand Central Station, many thousands waited in a 90-degree temperature to pass the casket in the church.

Family, friends and associates stood vigil over the body of the fallen senator. Among them were Robert S. McNamara, former secretary of defense and now president of the World Bank; Douglas Dillon, former secretary of the treasury; Burke Marshall and John Doar, his associates in the Justice Department, and Joseph Patrick Kennedy, his 16-year-old son.

At one time an honor guard of four master sergeants in green berets from the John F. Kennedy Combat Center at Fort Bragg, N.C., relieved the family at the casket.

Church officials said that because of the size of the crowd the church would remain open all night if necessary so that all might enter.

A crowd of about 1,000 persons, many of them teen-agers, was waiting in the gray dawn light when the massive doors to the old cathedral swung open at 5:41 a.m. Some had been waiting through the night.

In solemn and somber mood they filed by the dark red wood closed casket in final tribute to the 42-year-old Democratic senator who had aspired to be the second of his family to occupy the White House.

Many in the line were Negroes. There were also a number of nuns and two young couples who had attended a prom among the early crowd. Some of the mourners, particularly women, kissed the coffin and ran their fingers slowly across its polished surface as though reluctant to say a final farewell.

A candle burned at each corner of the catafalque as friends and relatives of the Kennedy family began a constant vigil, four at a time in half-hour shifts, around the bier.

In the early hours of the night Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the sole surviving son of four in his family, had kept watch over his brother whose life was taken, as was the late President John F. Kennedy's, by an assassin's bullet.

The cathedral, a Manhattan landmark for 89 years, was closed to the public at 7 p.m. Thursday, while workmen on scaffolding prepared the great nave for Roman Catholic funeral services scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday.

Then Robert Kennedy's body will be taken by train to Washington, for burial at Arlington National Cemetery, where his brother, the late President Kennedy, rests beneath an eternal flame.

Robert Kennedy was shot down early Wednesday as he celebrated his California presidential primary victory at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles. He died in Good Samaritan Hospital there at 4:44 a.m. EDT Thursday, his brain (Continued on Page 2)

Robert Kennedy's Family Bears Grief with Dignity

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a different time. A different place. A different woman. A different coffin. Yet, somehow, it seemed all the same. Another Kennedy widow was bringing her assassinated husband home for the last time.

There was that set face, that slim, straight body that moved unsupported, the same solid determination that there would be, in the midst of madness, some dignity.

What the world first saw in Jacqueline Kennedy 4½ years ago, it saw Thursday night in Ethel Kennedy and, indeed, in an entire family. Ethel Kennedy waited within the huge silver, blue and white Air Force jet that brought her murdered husband to La Guardia Airport until after the casket bearing the body of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy had been placed on a mechanical lift to be lowered to the ground. Then she followed.

When the bright television lights and flood lights hit her, she looked out at the crowds gathered below and smiled momentarily. It was, perhaps, a response to the photographers, a reflex of years of campaigning beside her husband.

Her poise was reflected in her two eldest sons, Joseph, 15, and Robert Jr., 14, who showed no signs of faltering as they helped lift their father's coffin gently from the aircraft.

There was Joan, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., arriving at La Guardia more than half an hour before the jet touched down, acting completely composed. And her husband, the only surviving son in a family which once had four sons, the first out of the aircraft front door and immediately in charge of removal of the casket.

Edward would remain with his brother through the night, alone inside an empty, dark St. Patrick's Cathedral.

But when the cathedral opened its doors to the first of thousands expected to come to pass by the coffin, friends and relatives would keep constant vigil there, four at a time in half hour shifts.

There was Eunice, sister of the slain senator, waiting at the airport without tears. Her husband, Sargent Shriver, U.S. ambassador to France, gently circling his arm around Joan's waist as they rode up the lift together—just in case the Kennedy composure failed.

Jean, a sister who rode the jet from Los Angeles, moved quickly and surely from the aircraft behind Ethel. And Jean's husband, Stephen Smith, campaign manager for the dead senator, also was entirely calm.

There was Pat, a sister, anxious to do what she could to help.

And then finally, there was Jacqueline, last to leave the aircraft. The great self-control of November 1963 when her husband, President John F. Kennedy, was slain, did not fail her in June 1968.

However it was reported that once Jacqueline entered St. Patrick's Cathedral—closed to the public then—with no one to see her but members of her family, she knelt and wept beside the casket and had to be aided to her feet by Edward Kennedy.

Only Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy — Rose — mother of the murdered senator and the murdered President did not meet the plane. A spokesman for the Kennedy family said she had remained in Manhattan to await her son's body at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Special Guard For Candidates Is Authorized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting within 12 hours of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's death, Congress has authorized Secret Service protection for all major presidential and vice presidential candidates.

President Johnson signed the measure Thursday night after it was passed without opposition by the House and Senate.

It gives legal authority for the action taken by the President after the shooting of Kennedy early Wednesday morning, when he ordered agents to protect Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Harold E. Stassen.

Secret Service protection was already provided for Vice President Hubert Humphrey, another contender, because of the office he holds.

The question of who qualifies as a major candidate will be left to the Secretary of the Treasury and a committee of congressional leaders under the new law.

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a different time. A different place. A different woman. A different coffin. Yet, somehow, it seemed all the same. Another Kennedy widow was bringing her assassinated husband home for the last time.

There was that set face, that slim, straight body that moved unsupported, the same solid determination that there would be, in the midst of madness, some dignity.

What the world first saw in Jacqueline Kennedy 4½ years ago, it saw Thursday night in Ethel Kennedy and, indeed, in an entire family.

Ethel Kennedy waited within the huge silver, blue and white Air Force jet that brought her murdered husband to La Guardia Airport until after the casket bearing the body of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy had been placed on a mechanical lift to be lowered to the ground. Then she followed.

When the bright television lights and flood lights hit her, she looked out at the crowds gathered below and smiled momentarily. It was, perhaps, a response to the photographers, a reflex of years of campaigning beside her husband.

Her poise was reflected in her two eldest sons, Joseph, 15, and Robert Jr., 14, who showed no signs of faltering as they helped lift their father's coffin gently from the aircraft.

There was Joan, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., arriving at La Guardia more than half an hour before the jet touched down, acting completely composed. And her husband, the only surviving son in a family which once had four sons, the first out of the aircraft front door and immediately in charge of removal of the casket.

Edward would remain with his brother through the night, alone inside an empty, dark St. Patrick's Cathedral.

But when the cathedral opened its doors to the first of thousands expected to come to pass by the coffin, friends and relatives would keep constant vigil there, four at a time in half hour shifts.

There was Eunice, sister of the slain senator, waiting at the airport without tears. Her husband, Sargent Shriver, U.S. ambassador to France, gently circling his arm around Joan's waist as they rode up the lift together—just in case the Kennedy composure failed.

Jean, a sister who rode the jet from Los Angeles, moved quickly and surely from the aircraft behind Ethel. And Jean's husband, Stephen Smith, campaign manager for the dead senator, also was entirely calm.

There was Pat, a sister, anxious to do what she could to help.

And then finally, there was Jacqueline, last to leave the aircraft. The great self-control of November 1963 when her husband, President John F. Kennedy, was slain, did not fail her in June 1968.

However it was reported that once Jacqueline entered St. Patrick's Cathedral—closed to the public then—with no one to see her but members of her family, she knelt and wept beside the casket and had to be aided to her feet by Edward Kennedy.

Only Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy — Rose — mother of the murdered senator and the murdered President did not meet the plane. A spokesman for the Kennedy family said she had remained in Manhattan to await her son's body at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Cong Said Using Capital Raids As Propaganda

Little Chance Seen For Early Letup In Enemy Campaign

SAIGON (AP) — Saigon took its worst enemy bombardment of the last five weeks early today. The Viet Cong slammed in 16 rockets which killed 25 Vietnamese civilians and wounded another 43, military officers reported.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland predicted the Viet Cong would continue its bombardment of the South Vietnamese capital "to grab headlines throughout the world by portraying a facade or aura of strength."

The outgoing commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam returned from Washington today.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced that the nightly barrage of 100-pound Russian rockets set fire to 27 houses today, destroying or damaging them. In terms of casualties and damage, it was the worst enemy shelling of Saigon since the Viet Cong began frequent bombardment of the capital 34 days ago in an apparent attempt to terrorize the population.

The barrage poured in a few hours before Westmoreland returned and some of the rockets landed close to his residence, to that of the top U.S. Navy commander and to the residence of the commander of South Korea's 48,000-man force in Vietnam.

While none of the commanders was hurt, nine houses were set afire on Westmoreland's street, seven civilians were killed and 15 more were wounded there.

Most of the rockets hit in the central part of the capital.

Sporadic street fighting continued in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese section, and in the northeastern suburb of Gia Dinh.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said government troops had killed 146 of the enemy and taken 23 prisoners during the past three days in Cholon. Government casualties were reported eight.

The government also announced that since May 5, when the street fighting broke out in Saigon, government forces have killed 2,778 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers and captured 313, while government losses have been 245 men killed, 933 wounded and 26 missing.

U.S. infantrymen from the 25th Division killed 32 of the enemy nine miles north of Saigon. Four Americans were killed and 16 wounded in the battle that raged until this morning.

On the northern front, fighting flared anew along the demilitarized zone.

An estimated 150 North Vietnamese troops, supported by heavy artillery, attacked U.S. Marines four miles southeast of the Khe Sanh combat base. The Marines reported 49 enemy and 13 Marines killed and 37 Americans wounded.

Near Con Thien, at the eastern end of the DMZ, North Vietnamese troops ambushed a Marine patrol, killed 14 Americans and wounded 11. Fourteen enemy soldiers were reported slain.

U.S. headquarters announced that enemy gunners shot down three American helicopters in scattered parts of the country. And said a total of seven crewmen were wounded.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. fighter-bombers flew a total of 131 missions Thursday against enemy supply routes and traffic moving south. Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging 62 supply barges for a two-day total of 119 supply boats reported damaged or destroyed by Navy pilots.

The Air Force also took the wraps off the biggest rescue effort of the war, a three-day operation over the weekend in the southern part of North Vietnam.

A small armada of warplanes and helicopters flew 189 sorties, three planes and one pilot were lost, a number of planes and helicopters were damaged, but Navy Lt. Kenny D. Fields—the object of the operation—was rescued.

The Air Force said this brought the total number of American planes lost over North Vietnam to 848 and in combat over South Vietnam to 270.

In another of its periodic reports on aircraft losses, U.S. headquarters said a total of nine helicopters have been downed over North Vietnam, 721 helicopters have been downed in combat over South Vietnam.

Who'll Get RFK Convention Votes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy left in death more than 300 Democratic National Convention delegates, many of them unsure now of their choice for the presidential nomination.

These elected delegates had been bound to Kennedy by primary results, chosen on a pledge to back him or willing to state first-ballot intentions in an Associated Press poll.

But a check of state officials and party leaders Thursday produced no case where these bonds were considered extant now. A Democratic National Committee spokesman said there is no headquarters rule on the point.

In the AP tabulation, Kennedy had been credited with 274½ such votes from 13 states and the District of Columbia.

In addition, he was due to get most or all of the 63 from Indiana, where he won a primary.

This total is about one-fourth of the 1,312 ballots required for victory in the convention opening in Chicago Aug. 26. Kennedy was known to have strength elsewhere that was not recorded publicly.

The first vote bloc declared free of Kennedy commitment was his biggest—the 174 from California where the assassin's volley convulsed his primary victory celebration.

Party headquarters, in response to inquiries, checked with California officials and said death severed the tie.

Indiana, Kennedy's second biggest bloc, is a special case due to a unique primary system.

The primary outcome governs the first-ballot vote from Indiana, but they are disembodied votes at that point, involving no actual persons who will cast them. The delegates who will do whatever is decided on will not be selected until the state convention June 21.

In South Dakota, where Kennedy won 26 votes by primary, there never was any real legal bond, Atty. Gen. Frank Farrar said. The delegates were only morally bound by running on a Kennedy slate, he said.

In Iowa, where Kennedy had at least 18 and probably 28 pledged votes out of the total of 46 at a state convention, a poll was being conducted on where they will jump.

Kennedy backers predicted most of their Iowa people will go to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. In Ohio's big delegation of 115 there had considerable strength leaning toward Kennedy.

Decision Near On Grave Site

Plot Beneath JFK Tomb Likely Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workmen at Arlington National Cemetery will begin preparing the final resting place for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy less than 24 hours before his scheduled burial Saturday.

As yet, a decision on precisely where in the 2.3-acre Kennedy memorial area he will be placed has not been announced.

John Metzler, cemetery superintendent, said a decision from the family of the assassinated senator was not expected until several hours after the body was brought to St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, where it will lie in state today.

Speculation on the burial location centers on a grassy slope about 25 yards below the resting place of President John F. Kennedy.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who helped select the site of President Kennedy's grave, returned from an overseas trip as president of the World Bank to take charge of funeral arrangements for Robert Kennedy.

Workmen measured the area Thursday morning.

A large oak tree stands toward the right side of the slope as one looks from President Kennedy's grave. Below the grave and above the slope is an oval plaza.

A visitor who stands on the plaza and reads stone inscriptions of President Kennedy's words overlooks the precisely manicured slope.

The area looks straight across Memorial Bridge and the Potomac River to the Lincoln Memorial.

Robert Kennedy could also be buried next to his brother in a 30-by-18 plot covered with rough-hewn stones. That plot also contains the graves of President Kennedy's son Patrick and a stillborn Kennedy daughter.

Metzler said work on the site would likely not begin until after the cemetery's usual 7 p.m. closing Friday. The burial is expected late Saturday afternoon.

There was some increased activity around the Kennedy area Thursday.

About a dozen workmen with three pieces of machinery carted away extra dirt and smoothed the area of 11 graves in a plot adjacent to the Kennedy area.

A military official worked on plans for heavy-duty power lines, benches to be built on two Army trucks and other details related to news media coverage of the burial.

Solemn Crowd

Being held in the slaying is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, a native of Jordan, said to have been inflamed by hatred of Israel. A former employer of Sirhan has suggested that Robert Kennedy's support of American aid for Israel could have been a factor in his assassination.

Los Angeles authorities also sought for questioning a young woman who wore a black and white polka dot dress, reportedly seen with Sirhan before the shooting. Inspector Peter Hagan said a youthful Kennedy campaign worker claimed to have seen such a woman run from the scene yelling, "We shot him!"

The Communist party of the United States called false a charge by Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty that Sirhan was associated with Communists. A party spokesman claimed the assassination resulted from a conspiracy of "blatant white racists and war-hawks."

In Albany, Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's press secretary said the governor has given no thought as yet to the appointment of a successor to Robert Kennedy, whose term as senator was to have expired Dec. 31, 1970.

Flags across the nation flew at half staff in memorial to Kennedy. And the presidential campaign in which he had played so active a part was temporarily interrupted out of respect for him.

Legislation authorizing Secret Service protection for all major presidential candidates was sped through Congress, and the House completed action on a crime-control bill which includes a ban on the mail-order sale of handguns. But President Johnson was asking for even tighter curbs on the traffic in firearms.

Under the shock of the second Kennedy assassination in less than five years, the Poor People's Campaign in Washington shifted its focus to urge a vast national educational program to end hatred and violence in America.

An autopsy report disclosed that Kennedy died of "a gunshot wound of the right mastoid penetrating the brain." Chief Medical Examiner Thomas T. Noguchi of Los Angeles said fragments of a .22-caliber bullet "reached about the center of the brain."

The presidential jetliner that brought Kennedy's body east from California also bore three women consigned to widowhood by assassins.

There was Robert Kennedy's wife, Ethel, mother of his 10 children, expecting an 11th. She had been with her husband when he was shot, was beside him when he died. She left the plane erect, seemingly composed, managing even a fleeting smile at one point.

There was Mrs. John F. Kennedy, reliving the nightmare of a winter's flight nearly five years ago from Dallas to Washington beside the casket of her slain husband.

Finally, there was Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., who made the flight to LaGuardia Airport aboard the presidential 707 jet with the others. Less than two months ago Robert Kennedy had flown south to console her and to attend the funeral of her husband, shot down in Memphis, Tenn., by an assassin still at large.

The casket was in the forward part of the plane and members of the family took turns keeping vigil beside it—all except Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., last of the Kennedy brothers.

He refused to leave his post beside the body. About an hour from New York his head drooped and he slept.

But he took the casket off the plane at LaGuardia, assisted by Robert Kennedy's two eldest sons, Joseph, 15, and Robert Jr., 14.

The body was borne in a motorcade to St. Patrick's, where a crowd estimated by police at 8,500 waited outside in the street. Some had been there since mid-afternoon, and the hearse did not arrive until 9:48 p.m.

joyous with the victory he had freshly scored in the California Democratic presidential primary, a tiny pellet of lead smashed into the brain of the 42-year-old senator who hoped to lead his country.

He died a little over 25 hours later. And nearly 12 hours after that his body, accompanied by his mourning family, was flown east to await honored burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

As the shock of Kennedy's death spread through the country and the world, the intense young man accused of the shooting sat in a bleak cubicle of three square yards in the county's main jail on Bouchet Street.

First details of Sirhan's imprisonment were disclosed Thursday by Sheriff Peter Pitchess.

Sirhan's grey-colored cell is on the second floor of the jail in an isolated wing with limited access. An unarmed deputy is constantly in the cell with him. Outside the steel door with a built-in lock, another guard peers at all times through an unbreakable glass porthole in the door.

"We can get to him fast if we have to," Pitchess said.

Flanking the corridor outside the cell, four other deputies remain alert. All the guards are picked men, Pitchess said.

Sirhan is in the medical section of the jail because he is under treatment for a broken index finger and a sprained ankle—injuries he suffered in his capture at the hotel. Sirhan has facial bruises as well from the arrest, Pitchess said.

Pitchess said Sirhan got a thorough medical examination when he was brought to county jail Wednesday morning after his Municipal Court arraignment on the original charges, attempted murder.

Sirhan is under the care of Dr. Marcus Crahan, jail medical director and also a psychiatrist. Asked whether Sirhan underwent psychiatric examination, Pitchess said yes.

The accused man, he said, has behaved well and has not asked for any visits from his family. Pitchess repeated what other officers have repeatedly said, that Sirhan refuses to talk about the shooting.

Sirhan is "totally noncommittal to our personnel," the sheriff said.

Sirhan learned of Kennedy's death and the worldwide reaction to it when, Pitchess revealed, he asked for and received Wednesday and Thursday copies of the morning Los Angeles Times and the afternoon Herald Examiner.

All security has been beefed up at the concrete jail, mostly because of Sirhan's presence, some of it due to mailed and telephoned bomb threats—"at least a dozen"—against the life of Pitchess and department personnel.

"We are ignoring these," Pitchess said, adding that most of the calls came Thursday.

Within a mile or so of the jail, official activity was at fever pitch. Four news conferences were held at different times by the sheriff, district attorney, county coroner and Mayor Samuel W. Yorty.

Yorty has aroused the ire of state and local legal authorities over his release of portions of Sirhan's notebook taken from his Pasadena apartment.

The officials expressed concern that the material might prejudice a fair trial. Yorty said Wednesday that Sirhan's notebook contained one entry about "the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

That is the date of the first anniversary of the Arab-Israeli war decisively won by Israel.

Younger told reporters the assassination was a "greater tragedy" and would be a "greater tragedy" if successful prosecution of the person responsible for the terrible crime were jeopardized by statements prior to the trial commenting on evidentiary matters.

California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch, saying he was concerned "over giving out information that might prejudice a fair trial," said that U.S. Supreme Court and California Supreme Court decisions severely limit what public officials can say.

Yorty told newsmen he had "exercised my judgment" in the matter, pointed out that he was a lawyer, and declared the trial would not be affected because the public had seen so much more on television.

Police said Thursday afternoon they had issued an all points bulletin for a white woman between 23 and 27 years old who reportedly was seen with Sirhan prior to the shooting. She was wearing a white dress with black polka dots. She was not named.

Inspector Peter Hagan added later, however, that the bulletin was only an informational one following a report from a young Kennedy campaign worker and was not for the purpose of arrest.

"We are merely asking for anyone to come forward with information regarding the girl in the polka dot dress," he said.

Gardeners sometimes locate colonies of squash bugs by their noxious odor. The pests take their name from squash, pumpkins and other gourds they eat.

Police Send Siren To Viet Battlefront

SEATTLE (AP) — Soldiers in the central highlands of Vietnam will soon be awaking to the sound of a Seattle siren.

Capt. Richard D. James recently wrote to the Seattle Police Department to find out where he could buy a new or used siren. He said he needed it to alert his battery to critical situations.

"We have been using a vehicle horn," he wrote, "but it is not loud enough to penetrate the bunkers to waken the men."

The police contacted the owner of an ambulance service, who immediately donated a $300 siren.

"I'll never speak to you again," And Mankiewicz said, "Well, he said, 'I was very subtle, but I went around to Yorty and I said to him, 'Sam,' he said, 'I think your presence would be offensive to Mrs. Kennedy.' And he didn't go near the plane."

The reference was to the plane that brought Kennedy's body from Los Angeles to New York. Mankiewicz, asked today about the report, said, "That's too strong. I don't think I said that. I think what I told Mayor Yorty was, 'I think Mrs. Kennedy would prefer that you not be there.' It was a private, personal, family thing. They didn't want anybody there to greet them."

He added, that he respected Vanocur as a reporter "and that may have been what I said in repeating it to him, but I can't remember exactly."

Cong Said Using Capital Raids As Propaganda

Little Chance Seen For Early Letup In Enemy Campaign

SAIGON (AP) — Saigon took its worst enemy bombardment of the last five weeks early today. The Viet Cong slammed in 16 rockets which killed 25 Vietnamese civilians and wounded another 43, military officers reported.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland predicted the Viet Cong would continue its bombardment of the South Vietnamese capital "to grab headlines throughout the world by portraying a facade or aura of strength."

The outgoing commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam returned from Washington today.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced that the nightly barrage of 100-pound Russian rockets set fire to 27 houses today, destroying or damaging them. In terms of casualties and damage, it was the worst enemy shelling of Saigon since the Viet Cong began frequent bombardment of the capital 34 days ago in an apparent attempt to terrorize the population.

The barrage poured in a few hours before Westmoreland returned and some of the rockets landed close to his residence, to that of the top U.S. Navy commander and to the residence of the commander of South Korea's 48,000-man force in Vietnam.

While none of the commanders was hurt, nine houses were set afire on Westmoreland's street, seven civilians were killed and 15 more were wounded there.

Most of the rockets hit in the central part of the capital.

Sporadic street fighting continued in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese section, and in the northeastern suburb of Gia Dinh.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said government troops had killed 146 of the enemy and taken 23 prisoners during the past three days in Cholon. Government casualties were reported light.

The government also announced that since May 5, when the street fighting broke out in Saigon, government forces have killed 2,778 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers and captured 313, while government losses have been 245 men killed, 933 wounded and 26 missing.

U.S. infantrymen from the 25th Division killed 32 of the enemy nine miles north of Saigon. Four Americans were killed and 16 wounded in the battle that raged until this morning.

On the northern front, fighting flared anew along the demilitarized zone.

An estimated 150 North Vietnamese troops, supported by heavy artillery, attacked U.S. Marines four miles southeast of the Khe Sanh combat base. The Marines reported 49 enemy and 13 Marines killed and 37 Americans wounded.

Near Con Thien, at the eastern end of the DMZ, North Vietnamese troops ambushed a Marine patrol, killed 14 Americans and wounded 11. Fourteen enemy soldiers were reported slain.

U.S. headquarters announced that enemy gunners shot down three American helicopters in scattered parts of the country. And said a total of seven crewmen were wounded.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. fighter-bombers flew a total of 131 missions Thursday against enemy supply routes and traffic moving south. Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging 62 supply barges for a two-day total of 119 supply boats reported damaged or destroyed by Navy pilots.

The Air Force also took the wraps off the biggest rescue effort of the war, a three-day operation over the weekend in the southern part of North Vietnam.

A small armada of warplanes and helicopters flew 189 sorties, three planes and one pilot were lost, a number of planes and helicopters were damaged, but Navy Lt. Kenny D. Fields—the object of the operation—was rescued.

The Air Force said this brought the total number of American planes lost over North Vietnam to 848 and in combat over South Vietnam to 250.

In another of its periodic reports on aircraft losses, U.S. headquarters said a total of nine helicopters have been downed over North Vietnam, 72 helicopters have been downed in combat in South Vietnam.

It also said 1,063 more planes and 989 more helicopters have been lost in "Category Two" which includes aircraft lost to nonhostile action, such as mechanical failure, losses of support aircraft such as cargo and transport planes, and losses from all other causes.

Who'll Get RFK Convention Votes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy left in death more than 300 Democratic National Convention delegates, many of them unsure now of their choice for the presidential nomination.

These elected delegates had been bound to Kennedy by primary results, chosen on a pledge to back him or willing to state first-ballot intentions in an Associated Press poll.

But a check of state officials and party leaders Thursday produced no case where these bonds were considered extant now. A Democratic National Committee spokesman said there is no headquarters rule on the point.

In the AP tabulation, Kennedy had been credited with 274½ such votes from 13 states and the District of Columbia.

In addition, he was due to get most or all of the 63 from Indiana, where he won a primary.

This total is about one-fourth of the 1,312 ballots required for victory in the convention opening in Chicago Aug. 28. Kennedy was known to have strength elsewhere that was not recorded publicly.

The first vote bloc declared free of Kennedy commitment was his biggest—the 174 from California where the assassin's volley convulsed his primary victory celebration.

Party headquarters, in response to inquiries, checked with California officials and said death severed the tie.

Indiana, Kennedy's second biggest bloc, is a special case due to a unique primary system.

The primary outcome governs the first-ballot vote from Indiana, but they are disembodied votes at that point, involving no actual persons who will cast them. The delegates who will do whatever is decided on will not be selected until the state convention June 21.

In South Dakota, where Kennedy won 26 votes by primary, there never was any real legal bond, Atty. Gen. Frank Farrar said. The delegates were only morally bound by running on a Kennedy slate, he said.

In Iowa, where Kennedy had at least 18 and probably 28 pledged votes out of the total of 46 at a state convention, a poll was being conducted on where they will jump.

Kennedy backers predicted most of their Iowa people will go to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. In Ohio's big delegation of 115 there had considerable strength leaning toward Kennedy.

Decision Near On Grave Site

Plot Beneath JFK Tomb Likely Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workmen at Arlington National Cemetery will begin preparing the final resting place for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy less than 24 hours before his scheduled burial Saturday.

As yet, a decision on precisely where in the 2.3-acre Kennedy memorial area he will be placed has not been announced.

John Metzler, cemetery superintendent, said a decision from the family of the assassinated senator was not expected until several hours after the body was brought to St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, where it will lie in state today.

Speculation on the burial location centers on a grassy slope about 25 yards below the resting place of President John F. Kennedy.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who helped select the site of President Kennedy's grave, returned from an overseas trip as president of the World Bank to take charge of funeral arrangements for Robert Kennedy.

Workmen measured the area Thursday morning. A large oak tree stands toward the right side of the slope as one looks from President Kennedy's grave. Below the grave and above the slope is an oval plaza.

A visitor who stands on the plaza and reads stone inscriptions of President Kennedy's words overlooks the precisely manicured slope.

The area looks straight across Memorial Bridge and the Potomac River to the Lincoln Memorial.

Robert Kennedy could also be buried next to his brother in a 30-by-18 plot covered with rough-hewn stones. That plot also contains the graves of President Kennedy's son Patrick and a stillborn Kennedy daughter.

Metzler said work on the site would likely not begin until after the cemetery's usual 7 p.m. closing Friday. The burial is expected late Saturday afternoon.

There was some increased activity around the Kennedy area Thursday.

About a dozen workmen with three pieces of machinery carted away extra dirt and smoothed the area of 11 graves in a plot adjacent to the Kennedy area.

A military official worked on plans for heavy-duty power lines, benches to be built on two Army trucks and other details related to news media coverage of the burial.

Solemn Crowd

Being held in the slaying is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, a native of Jordan, said to have been inflamed by hatred of Israel. A former employer of Sirhan has suggested that Robert Kennedy's support of American aid for Israel could have been a factor in his assassination.

Los Angeles authorities also sought for questioning a young woman who wore a black and white polka dot dress, reportedly seen with Sirhan before the shooting. Inspector Peter Hagan said a youthful Kennedy campaign worker claimed to have seen such a woman run from the scene yelling, "We shot him!"

The Communist party of the United States called false a charge by Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty that Sirhan was associated with Communists. A party spokesman claimed the assassination was the result of a conspiracy of "blatant white racists and war-hawks."

In Albany, Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's press secretary said the governor has given no thought as yet to the appointment of a successor to Robert Kennedy, whose term as senator was to have expired Dec. 31, 1970.

Flags across the nation flew at half staff in memorial to Kennedy. And the presidential campaign in which he had played so active a part was temporarily interrupted out of respect for him.

Legislation authorizing Secret Service protection for all major presidential candidates was sped through Congress, and the House completed action on a crime-control bill which includes a ban on the mail-order sale of handguns. But President Johnson was asking for even tighter curbs on the traffic in firearms.

Under the shock of the second Kennedy assassination in less than five years, the Poor People's Campaign in Washington shifted its focus to urge a vast national educational program to end hatred and violence in America.

An autopsy report disclosed that Kennedy died of "a gunshot wound of the right mastoid penetrating the brain." Chief Medical Examiner Thomas T. Noguchi of Los Angeles said fragments of a .22-caliber bullet "reached about the center of the brain."

The presidential jetliner that brought Kennedy's body east from California also bore three women consigned to widowhood by the stealthy marksmanship of assassins.

There was Robert Kennedy's wife, Ethel, mother of his 10 children, expecting an 11th. She had been with her husband when he was shot, was beside him when he died. She left the plane erect, seemingly composed, managing even a fleeting smile at one point.

There was Mrs. John F. Kennedy, reliving the nightmare of a winter's flight nearly five years ago from Dallas to Washington beside the casket of her slain husband.

Finally, there was Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., who made the flight to LaGuardia Airport aboard the presidential 707 jet with the others. Less than two months ago Robert Kennedy had flown south to console her and to attend the funeral of her husband, shot down in Memphis, Tenn., by an assassin still at large.

The casket was in the forward part of the plane and members of the family took turns keeping vigil beside it—all except Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., last of the Kennedy brothers.

He refused to leave his post beside the body. About an hour from New York his head drooped and he slept.

But he took the casket off the plane at LaGuardia, assisted by Robert Kennedy's two eldest sons, Joseph, 15, and Robert Jr., 14.

The body was borne in a motorcade to St. Patrick's, where a crowd estimated by police at 8,500 waited outside in the street. Some had been there since mid-afternoon, and the hearse did not arrive until 9:48 p.m.

joyous with the victory he had freshly scored in the California Democratic presidential primary, a tiny pellet of lead smashed into the brain of the 42-year-old senator who hoped to lead his country.

He died a little over 25 hours later. And nearly 12 hours after that his body, accompanied by his mourning family, was flown east to await honored burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

As the shock of Kennedy's death spread through the country and the world, the intense young man accused of the shooting sat in a bleak cubicle of three square yards in the county's main jail on Bouchet Street.

First details of Sirhan's imprisonment were disclosed Thursday by Sheriff Peter Pitchess.

Sirhan's grey-colored cell is on the second floor of the jail in an isolated wing with limited access. An unarmed deputy is constantly in the cell with him.

Outside the steel door with a built-in lock, another guard peers at all times through an unbreakable glass porthole in the door.

"We can get to him fast if we have to," Pitchess said. Flanking the corridor outside the cell, four other deputies remain alert. All the guards are picked men, Pitchess said.

Sirhan is in the medical section of the jail because he is under treatment for a broken index finger and a sprained ankle—injuries he suffered in his capture at the hotel. Sirhan has facial bruises as well from the arrest, Pitchess said.

Pitchess said Sirhan got a thorough medical examination when he was brought to county jail Wednesday morning after his Municipal Court arraignment on the original charges, attempted murder.

Sirhan is under the care of Dr. Marcus Crahan, jail medical director and also a psychiatrist. Asked whether Sirhan underwent psychiatric examination, Pitchess said yes.

The accused man, he said, has behaved well and has not asked for any visits from his family. Pitchess repeated that other officers have repeatedly said that Sirhan refuses to talk about the shooting.

Sirhan is "totally noncommittal to our personnel," the sheriff said.

Sirhan learned of Kennedy's death and the worldwide reaction to it when, Pitchess revealed, he asked for and received Wednesday and Thursday copies of the morning Los Angeles Times and the afternoon Herald Examiner.

All security has been beefed up at the concrete jail, mostly because of Sirhan's presence, some of it due to mailed and telephoned bomb threats—"at least a dozen"—against the life of Pitchess and department personnel.

"We are ignoring these," Pitchess said, adding that most of the calls came Thursday.

Within a mile or so of the jail, official activity was at fever pitch. Four news conferences were held at different times by the sheriff, district attorney, county coroner and Mayor Samuel W. Yorty.

Yorty has aroused the ire of state and local legal authorities over his release of portions of Sirhan's notebook taken from his Pasadena apartment.

The officials expressed concern that the material might prejudice a fair trial. Yorty said Wednesday that Sirhan's notebook contained one entry about "the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

That is the date of the first anniversary of the Arab-Israeli war decisively won by Israel.

Younger told reporters the assassination was a great tragedy and would be a "greater tragedy" if successful prosecution of the person responsible for the terrible crime were jeopardized by statements prior to the trial commenting on evidentiary matters.

California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch, saying he was concerned "over giving out information that might prejudice a fair trial," said that U.S. Supreme Court and California Supreme Court decisions severely limit what public officials can say.

Yorty told newsmen he had "exercised my judgment" in the matter, pointed out that he was a lawyer, and declared the trial would not be affected because the public had seen so much more on television.

Police said Thursday afternoon they had issued an all points bulletin for a white woman between 23 and 27 years old who reportedly was seen with Sirhan prior to the shooting. She was wearing a white dress with black polka dots. She was not named.

Inspector Peter Hagan added later, however, that the bulletin was only an informational one following a report from a young Kennedy campaign worker and was not for the purpose of arrest.

"We are merely asking for anyone to come forward with information regarding the girl in the polka dot dress," he said.

Gardeners sometimes locate colonies of squash bugs by their noxious odor. The pests take their name from squash, pumpkins and other gourds they eat.

"I'll never speak to you again," And Mankiewicz said, "Well," he said, "I was very subtle, but I went around to Yorty and I said to him, 'Sam,' he said, 'I think your presence would be offensive to Mrs. Kennedy.'" And he didn't go near the plane."

The reference was to the plane that brought Kennedy's body from Los Angeles to New York. Mankiewicz, asked today about the report, said, "That's too strong. I don't think I said that. I think what I told Mayor Yorty was, 'I think Mrs. Kennedy would prefer that you not be there.' It was a private, personal, family thing. They didn't want anybody there to greet them."

He added, that he respected Vanocur as a reporter "and that may have been what I said in repeating it to him, but I can't remember exactly."

Police Send Siren To Viet Battlefront

SEATTLE (AP) — Soldiers in the central highlands of Vietnam will soon be awaking to the sound of a Seattle siren.

Capt. Richard D. James recently wrote to the Seattle Police Department to find out where he could buy a new or used siren. He said he needed it to alert his battery to critical situations.

"We have been using a vehicle horn," he wrote, "but it is not loud enough to penetrate the bunkers to wake the men."

The police contacted the owner of an ambulance service, who immediately donated a $300 siren.

Costly, But Successful Massive Rescue Effort

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. Air Force lost three planes and one pilot, and many more planes and helicopters were damaged in the greatest rescue effort made in Vietnam, Air Force officers disclosed today.

But the costly, three-day operation achieved its goal, the rescue of a 27-year-old Navy flier trapped within a bristling complex of antiaircraft defenses.

A small armada of warplanes and helicopters flew 181 sorties to save Lt. Kenney D. Fields of Jacksonville, Fla.

"Those guys just never gave up," said Fields.

The massive operation began May 31, and parts of it are still under security wraps. It centered on a heavily defended road which cuts west from the North Vietnamese coast toward the Mu Gia Pass and the entrance to the Ho Chi Minh Trail just above the 17th parallel.

Flying an A7 Corsair jet, Fields took off from the America last Friday afternoon on the big carrier's first day of combat patrol off North Vietnam.

Boring into the target area half an hour later, the subsonic jet was hit by what appeared to be 37mm antiaircraft fire and went out of control. Fields popped his ejection seat and parachuted down.

"It was probably the worst place in the world to go down," one of the rescue officers said later. "The area was literally alive with troops and guns."

Fields, however, managed to land in a jungled spot—surrounded by enemy positions but for the moment safe. His wingman in another Corsair began to circle the area until rescue helicopters could arrive, and he became the first casualty of the rescue.

His plane was hit by a burst of gunfire, and the pilot banked toward the coast 20 miles away. He barely made it and ejected into the sea near a heavily defended island. The chopper that rescued him returned to base full of bullet holes.

Meanwhile, propeller-driven Skyraiders were on the way to help Fields. They had been nearby, searching unsuccessfully for an Air Force F105 Thunderchief pilot who had gone down earlier and was never located.

As Fields gave instructions on his rescue radio, North Vietnamese gunners crisscrossed the sky with fire, the Skyraiders tried to find him. A Jolly Green Giant helicopter hedge-hopped toward the area. Jets began to strafe and bomb the enemy gun positions. But near dusk it was evident no rescue could be made that day.

During the night, Fields managed to move a few hundred yards, but he was still surrounded by North Vietnamese troops.

By radio Saturday morning he calmly gave the rescue fleet radio reports and pinpointed his location. Jets again screamed down on the area with rockets, machine guns and CBU bombs that spewed thousands of tiny pellets.

The antiaircraft fire became more intense and two Skyraiders were downed. The pilot of one, Maj. William Palank, 43, of Chicago, Ill., got far enough away before bailing out so a chopper could rescue him without much trouble. The other pilot is still missing.

Maj. Dale Oderman of Springfield, Ore., and a veteran of dozens of rescue missions in North Vietnam, tried to get his Jolly Green Giant within range.

His engine began to overheat, and he was forced to put down in a jungle clearing in enemy territory. A few minutes later he got into the air again, only to be forced down again within a few miles.

Other rescue choppers pulled him and his crew to safety. They came back the next day with a flying crane and lifted their stricken craft out.

As the second day waned, an all-out effort was ordered. The jets went in first, then the propeller-driven Skyraiders, then a lumbering helicopter tried to make the rescue. Again the enemy fire drove it off.

Fields reported later that the air strikes to protect him set off perhaps 200 or more secondary explosions, meaning he was in the middle of a defense complex of guns, munitions and troops.

As darkness came, "there were three or four times that I was sure I was going to be captured," Fields said. "I was literally flanked by 37 millimeter guns."

But again that night, Fields managed to snake through surrounding North Vietnamese. This time he got farther away and at dawn Sunday, he was on his rescue radio again with weather reports for his rescuers.

"He was the coolest one of the whole bunch," reported one officer who listened to the babel of radio voices.

Hedgehopping in at treetop level, with the jets and Skyraiders again giving cover, Maj. Lewis Yuhas of Charleroi, Pa., piloted a Jolly Green Giant for the first attempt of the day.

Speeding straight to the location given by Fields, the chopper dropped its cable and lifted him to safety with ease—39 hours after he had first flashed the signal for help on his rescue radio.

He had only a slight flesh wound, either from the bursting American bombs or exploding North Vietnamese ammunition. "I can't express the pride I felt in everyone," Fields said.

Ohio School Head To Recommend New Assistant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Martin W. Essex, state superintendent of public instruction, said today he would recommend to the state Board of Education when it meets Monday that Dr. Franklin B. Walter be appointed to the post of assistant superintendent.

Dr. Walter would succeed Dr. Wayne Carle, at a salary of $19,552 annually, with the appointment to become effective Aug. 1.

Essex said he would also recommend that Urbana College and Cedarville College be given full approval for preparation of elementary and high school teachers. He said he would make a similar recommendation for Walsh College at Canton, noting that Walsh previously had been approved for preparation of high school teachers.

Besides recommendations for transfer of various school territories, he said he would also recommend that the proposal for a joint vocational school district identified as Central-Cuyahoga County No. 2, be returned to the Cuyahoga County Board of Education for consideration of the addition of other districts to the program, and a revision of the plan reflecting such additions.

Husband Gets Life In Bathtub Murder

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Charles Williams, found guilty last Sunday of second-degree murder in the bathtub drowning of his wife, was sentenced Thursday to life imprisonment.

Judge M. Dale Osborne of Clermont County Common Pleas Court overruled defense requests for a new trial.

Mrs. Williams' body was found Jan. 26, 1957, in the bathtub at the couple's home in nearby Mount Carmel.

Anglican Leader Foresees Changes

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury thinks a prime task for this summer's Lambeth Conference must be to decide how the Anglican Communion can speak with one voice amidst world moves for church unity.

Dr. Michael Ramsey, 63, as England's primate, will preside the month-long gathering starting here July 25. It will be attended by an estimated 480 bishops from all over the world.

"None of us wants a centralized bureaucracy," he says, "and all our inclinations are toward traveling light in central organization. But we have to consider what our future structure is going to be."

Although Lambeth Conferences have certain moral authority which the 18 churches of the Anglican communion recognize, the bishops have no means of enforcing their decisions.

Some churchmen think this Lambeth meeting may be the last in its present form and a new body with legislative powers, more like the Vatican Council, may replace it. The Canadian bishops are understood to be backing more central organization.

The archbishop says it's up to the conference to decide. But he points out that in Anglican relations with Rome or the Holy Orthodox Church "it is inevitable that, while there are things that can be done by local churches and their hierarchies, there must be action in the name of the Anglican Communion as a whole."

The Church of England can talk with the Methodists in England—the two churches are currently studying plans for reunion after a 200-year split—but Dr. Ramsey's visit to Pope Paul in 1966 had to be in the name of the Anglican Communion.

Elaborating on this in an interview in his study at Lambeth Palace, the archbishop said discussions with Rome on such subjects as mixed marriages and doctrine were on a pan-Anglican basis.

While conceding that the Methodist discussions were taking a long time and the talks with Rome were inevitably long, Dr. Ramsey said the break through in communications that is constructive in every aspect of church life over there that I shall expect much leadership from the American church."

Costly, But Successful Massive Rescue Effort

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. Air Force lost three planes and one pilot, and many more planes and helicopters were damaged in the greatest rescue effort made in Vietnam, Air Force officers disclosed today.

But the costly, three-day operation achieved its goal, the rescue of a 27-year-old Navy flier trapped within a bristling complex of antiaircraft defenses.

A small armada of warplanes and helicopters flew 181 sorties to save Lt. Kenney D. Fields of Jacksonville, Fla.

"Those guys just never gave up," said Fields.

The massive operation began May 31, and parts of it are still under security wraps. It centered on a heavily defended road which cuts west from the North Vietnamese coast toward the Mu Gia Pass and the entrance to the Ho Chi Minh Trail just above the 17th parallel.

Flying an A7 Corsair jet, Fields took off from the America last Friday afternoon on the big carrier's first day of combat patrol off North Vietnam.

Boring into the target area half an hour later, the subsonic jet was hit by what appeared to be 37mm antiaircraft fire and went out of control. Fields popped his ejection seat and parachuted down.

"It was probably the worst place in the world to go down," one of the rescue officers said later. "The area was literally alive with troops and guns."

Fields, however, managed to land in a jungled spot—surrounded by enemy positions but for the moment safe. His wingman in another Corsair began to circle the area until rescue helicopters could arrive, and he became the first casualty of the rescue.

His plane was hit by a burst of gunfire, and the pilot banked toward the coast 20 miles away. He barely made it and ejected into the sea near a heavily defended island. The chopper that rescued him returned to base full of bullet holes.

Meanwhile, propeller-driven Skyraiders were on the way to help Fields. They had been nearby, searching unsuccessfully for an Air Force F105 Thunderchief pilot who had gone down earlier and was never located.

As Fields gave instructions on his rescue radio, North Vietnamese gunners crisscrossed the sky with fire, the Skyraiders tried to find him. A Jolly Green Giant helicopter hedge-hopped toward the area. Jets began to strafe and bomb the enemy gun positions. But near dusk it was evident no rescue could be made that day.

During the night, Fields managed to move a few hundred yards, but he was still surrounded by North Vietnamese troops.

By radio Saturday morning he calmly gave the rescue fleet radio reports and pinpointed his location. Jets again screamed down on the area with rockets, machine guns and CBU bombs that spewed thousands of tiny pellets.

The antiaircraft fire became more intense and two Skyraiders were downed. The pilot of one, Maj. William Palank, 43, of Chicago, Ill., got far enough away before bailing out so a chopper could rescue him without much trouble. The other pilot is still missing.

Maj. Dale Oderman of Springfield, Ore., and a veteran of dozens of rescue missions in North Vietnam, tried to get his Jolly Green Giant within range.

His engine began to overheat, and he was forced to put down in a jungle clearing in enemy territory. A few minutes later he got into the air again, only to be forced down again within a few miles.

Other rescue choppers pulled him and his crew to safety. They came back the next day with a flying crane and lifted their stricken craft out.

As the second day waned, an all-out effort was ordered. The jets went in first, then the propeller-driven Skyraiders, then a lumbering helicopter tried to make the rescue. Again the enemy fire drove it off.

Fields reported later that the air strikes to protect him set off perhaps 200 or more secondary explosions, meaning he was in the middle of a defense complex of guns, munitions and troops.

As darkness came, "there were three or four times that I was sure I was going to be captured," Fields said. "I was literally flanked by 37 millimeter guns."

But again that night, Fields managed to snake through surrounding North Vietnamese. This time he got farther away and at dawn Sunday, he was on his rescue radio again with weather reports for his rescuers.

"He was the coolest one of the whole bunch," reported one officer who listened to the babel of radio voices.

Hedgehopping in at treetop level, with the jets and Skyraiders again giving cover, Maj. Lewis Yuhas of Charleroi, Pa., piloted a Jolly Green Giant for the first attempt of the day.

Speeding straight to the location given by Fields, the chopper dropped its cable and lifted him to safety with ease—39 hours after he had first flashed the signal for help on his rescue radio.

He had only a slight flesh wound, either from the bursting American bombs or exploding North Vietnamese ammunition. "I can't express the pride I felt in everyone," Fields said.

Ohio School Head To Recommend New Assistant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Martin W. Essex, state superintendent of public instruction, said today he would recommend to the state Board of Education when it meets Monday that Dr. Franklin B. Walter be appointed to the post of assistant superintendent.

Dr. Walter would succeed Dr. Wayne Carle, at a salary of $19,552 annually, with the appointment to become effective Aug. 1.

Essex said he would also recommend that Urbana College and Cedarville College be given full approval for preparation of elementary and high school teachers. He said he would make a similar recommendation for Walsh College at Canton, noting that Walsh previously had been approved for preparation of high school teachers.

Besides recommendations for transfer of various school territories, he said he would also recommend that the proposal for a joint vocational school district identified as Central-Cuyahoga County No. 2, be returned to the Cuyahoga County Board of Education for consideration of the addition of other districts to the program, and a revision of the plan reflecting such additions.

Anglican Leader Foresees Changes

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury thinks a prime task for this summer's Lambeth Conference must be to decide how the Anglican Communion can speak with one voice amidst world moves for church unity.

Dr. Michael Ramsey, 63, as England's primate, will preside the month-long gathering starting here July 25. It will be attended by an estimated 480 bishops from all over the world.

"None of us wants a centralized bureaucracy," he says, "and all our inclinations are toward traveling light in central organization. But we have to consider what our future structure is going to be."

Although Lambeth Conferences have certain moral authority which the 18 churches of the Anglican communion recognize, the bishops have no means of enforcing their decisions.

Some churchmen think this Lambeth meeting may be the last in its present form and a new body with legislative powers, more like the Vatican Council, may replace it. The Canadian bishops are understood to be backing more central organization.

The archbishop says it's up to the conference to decide. But he points out that in Anglican relations with Rome or the Holy Orthodox Church "it is inevitable that, while there are things that can be done by local churches and their hierarchies, there must be action in the name of the Anglican Communion as a whole."

The Church of England can talk with the Methodists in England—the two churches are currently studying plans for reunion after a 200-year split—but Dr. Ramsey's visit to Pope Paul in 1966 had to be in the name of the Anglican Communion.

Elaborating on this in an interview in his study at Lambeth Palace, the archbishop said discussions with Rome on such subjects as mixed marriages and doctrine were on a pan-Anglican basis.

While conceding that the Methodist discussions were taking a long time and the talks with Rome were inevitably long, Dr. Ramsey said the break through in communications that is constructive in every aspect of church life over there that I shall expect much leadership from the American church."

Staying Awake To Sleep

A Viennese professor, apparently working on the theory that too much of anything is bad, has reached the conclusion that the easiest way to cure insomnia is to stay awake. He now prescribes a treatment, dubbed "paradox intention," which includes all manner of means to keep his patient out of the state of somnolence.

The chief of a Viennese hospital's neurological department requires that insomniacs concentrate on keeping their eyes open, their minds active and their attention focused upon staying awake. Within minutes, they fall asleep.

Much of the trouble to begin with, the doctor feels, is caused by a person's worry about not going to sleep. So he convinces his patients they should worry about going to sleep. While this psychotherapeutic treatment is going on certain props, such as the eyes wide open rule and perhaps even a time clock the patient is supposed to remember to punch every quarter hour are given to insure the attention doesn't stray.

At the same time, the doctor begins his studies to ascertain the underlying cause of the patient's sleeplessness. But the immediate effect is to give the patient relief. The treatment could be described as an extension of the old sheep-counting fable.

"Paradox intention" could be the coming thing. Imagine the social image of a person who casually explains his paradox intentions to callers. Perhaps this treatment might be successful in cases in other self-induced ailments or excesses.

Making the unwanted circumstance as distasteful as possible provides a powerful incentive for destroying it.

Crisp Cash

"Dirty money" is an expression used to express contempt, moral superiority, or — heaven forbid that it should ever be admitted — envy when one hears of someone making a fast profit in dubious circumstances.

This is not meant literally, of course. Even the dirtiest and most jaded $10 bill is welcome on arrival, cherished during its stay, and relinquished reluctantly.

But there is something appealing about printing-press freshness of new bills. Crisp bills give a delight that the old, limp and weary never can.

So, why doesn't some genius invent washable money? No germs, no limpness — only nice crisp bills, even if they won't buy much.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Can a relatively small, family owned business thrive in a U.S. oil industry dominated by multibillion dollar giants?

"Why not?" asks Jack Vickers Jr. "It has a lot of things in its favor, and it doesn't have to keep 18 million stockholders happy."

Vickers at 42 is board chairman of the Vickers Petroleum Co., Inc., headquartered in Wichita, Kan., which is celebrating its golden anniversary this year.

The firm, now in the $30-million-a-year class, refines petroleum chemicals and operates 800 service stations in six Midwest and southwest states.

In 1918, Jack Vickers Sr., a chance-taking young man as much at home aboard a polo pony as an oil rig, borrowed $5,000 and gambled it all on a single oil lease. He hit black gold.

Parlaying his winnings, young Jack soon has his production up to 500 barrels a day, then started marketing his own products, also steadily investing in new leases.

He had a family empire consisting of a wife and eight children.

dren. He wanted to build a business empire, too, and keep it in the family. At his death at the early age of 49 in 1940, his firm was grossing more than $11 million a year. He left control of it to members of the family in a series of trusts.

Jack Jr., left the University of Oklahoma at 20 to become an oil scout, and soon proved he had his father's luck and skill. By 1950 he had become a vice president, by 1952 chief executive of the firm.

Today, Jack, his mother, and two brothers are among the seven directors of the family corporation. A total of 26 Vickers, including Jack's seven children, cheer its continuing success.

Jack gives most credit to his mother, Helen Vickers Pringer, now in her early seventies. "She puts an iron hand on any of us if we get out of hand," said the dark-haired, athletically built executive.

"Family owned corporation has a number of advantages, one being that others can't steal it out from under you. "We have had our arguments behind closed doors, but we were always holding hands when we came out."

FRANK SINATRA, JR., embarked upon a career of his own on the night-club and TV circuits, labors, of course, under the shadow of his father, admittedly the tops when it comes to putting over a song. Frank, Jr., has now achieved stardom, too, and can afford to kid his famous pater now and then. In his current act, Frank, Jr. remarks, "He's gotten used to it all now, I think. But the first time I kidded him on stage he told me, 'Very funny, son — and right now I'm looking for a loophole in your birth certificate.'"

Bob Hope explains that he got started in TV in 1949 "before Milton Berle used all his material." On his first show, an introductory wisecrack brought a solitary laugh from an assistant planted in the audience. "Not yet, Charlie," cracked Hope hastily, "but don't you leave!" Hope is away from home so often that his daughter Linda claims, "I was twelve years old before I learned he wasn't an airline pilot!"

In contrast to the mealy-mouthed evasions of so many current politicians and other big-wigs, it's refreshing to encounter the reminiscences of Musician Oscar Levant who, explaining the break-up of his first marriage, wrote, "Not only were we incompatible, but we hated each other."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What causes a "Charley Horse" and what can be done about it?

So many readers have posed this question recently about painful leg cramps that I am repeating today a column I wrote several years ago:

Many of us have been awakened at one time or another from a deep, comfortable sleep by a sudden painful cramp in the muscles of the leg. If you have, then you know how distressing, even terrifying these spasms can be. Although they may last for only a few minutes, when they recur frequently they cause great anxiety.

Painfully annoying, too, are the cramps that occur while you are awake. The "Charley Horse," which plagues athletes, falls into this last category.

Cramps are caused by narrowing or spasm of the arteries that bring nourishing blood and oxygen to the muscles of the legs. The causes are many and varied.

In the elderly, arteriosclerosis is one of the major causes that impair the normal flow of blood. Another condition, a rather peculiar one, occurs in people whose parents come from mid-European countries. It is called "Buerger's Disease," named after the man who first described it.

This is a condition associated with a sensitivity to tobacco. There are many simple causes of leg cramps, too. Bed sheets too tightly bound down, tight garters that restrict the circulation of blood, even improperly-fitting shoes may cause leg cramps.

In most instances, night cramps are more uncomfortable than serious. However, if they persist, the exact cause should be determined and removed. These leg cramps cry for attention and refuse to be neglected.

Every conceivable suggestion has been made by solicitous members of the family when a painful spasm disturbs your night's sleep. They vary from sound medical truths to the most bizarre and far-fetched. "The leg is having a bad dream and wants to wake up" is a typical comment.

When a painful cramp wakes you, don't slap, kick or bruise that tender leg as somebody may suggest. It has troubles enough without that old wives' remedy.

Better, try to walk slowly, or gently massage the leg. The spasm of the blood vessels responsible for the cramps will soon disappear. Generally, if you relax, the spasm will.

If pain persists, warm, moist towels applied to the leg brings comfort and relief. Recently, quinine prescribed in special doses by doctors and taken at bedtime seems to prevent these recurrent spasms.

All leg cramps deserve attention. Drugs and controlled exercise can diminish the frequency and severity of the cramps. Most important, anxiety can be relieved by the reassurance that comes with a thorough medical check-up.

Fear and anxiety do not flourish in the climate of hope.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — A few well regarded economists who sometimes have been accused of looking at the most dismal side of society reached agreement among themselves the other day that perhaps things weren't as bad as they looked.

One of the real maladies, they felt, was the snapshot syndrome. This is an illness, they said, that affects a range of students, workers, businessmen, sociologists, economists, educators. Its symptoms are intellectual, nearsightedness, an ignorance of history, an inability to view society as anything but static.

The snapshot syndrome causes the viewer to see everything in black and white, like a photograph, and to focus on the immediate problems without attempting to place these problems in perspective. This viewer never asks if things are better or worse; he observes only that they are very bad.

Said one economist: "They can relate only to what has happened in the past four or five years. Beyond that they're liable to think of President Eisenhower and Washington as contemporaries. And they can't see any farther into the future."

Perhaps fitting into the contempt of things was the Commerce Department report this week showing that the number of poverty families dropped sharply from 1959 to 1966.

More than six million families lived in poverty in 1966, or 12.4 per cent of all families. The breakdown by color was much worse: 34.9 per cent of all Negro families were in poverty, compared with 9.9 per cent of white families.

These are the figures that now cause so much concern in America and which, in the view of some authorities, endanger the future of American life. But they are not static figures. They are changing.

Despite a smaller population in 1959, conditions then were worse. About 8.3 million families lived in poverty, or 18 per cent of all families. Nearly 50 per cent of Negro families and 15 per cent of whites were poverty-stricken.

Bad as the later figures are then, the proportion of Americans living in poverty conditions fell from 18 per cent in 1959 to 12.4 per cent in 1966.

The big danger is that improvement will continue along color lines. Not only is the percentage of Negro poverty much larger than that for whites, but improvement among Negroes actually has been slower.

Satisfying the Moderates

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

From November to June they — meaning the Republicans who call themselves the moderates — waited for Richard Nixon to stumble. But primary after primary went by, and Nixon made no serious errors. So now, after a whopping victory in an Oregon that would probably have gone for Gov. Rockefeller if the chief hope of the moderates had only allowed his name to stay on the local primary ballot, Nixon is sitting pretty.

The only person who has even a remote chance of heading him off is California's Ronald Reagan, and Reagan is not likely to commend himself to the moderates as a substitute for Rockefeller.

Now that the moderates have repeated their fiasco of 1964, one wonders at their wisdom in opposing Nixon in the first place. For the truth of the matter is that Nixon is no flaming "rightist." Why the eastern seaboard Republican liberals should ever have been against Nixon has always mystified me. (The "can't win" tag is a phony; it took a couple of things like Cook County to keep Nixon from winning in 1960.)

True enough, Nixon has been hawkish on Vietnam. But he has been hawkish because he wanted a quick end to the war through the canny exercise of political power, not through an "escalation" of military action that would have provoked a Red Chinese invasion of Vietnam. He has been for bringing economic pressure to bear on the Soviet Union, hoping to compel Brezhnev and Kosygin to de-escalate their own commitment to Ho Chi Minh. This wouldn't involve an invasion of the enemy's "privileged sanctuaries" in Laos and Cambodia; indeed, Nixon was long ago on record as opposing any geographical extension of the war into supposedly neutral territory.

When President Johnson cut back on the bombing and sent Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance to meet the North Vietnamese at Paris, Nixon wisely said he'd do nothing that might hinder the Administration on its quest for an honorable peace. Rockefeller, on the other hand, went on talking about some superior "regional" deal on Southeast Asia. He spoke of opening a dialogue with the Red Chinese, looking to split them apart from the Soviet Union. But at the same time he insulted the Red Chinese by referring hopefully to the historic anti-Chinese sentiment in Southeast Asia.

The fact that Rockefeller had joined with three Democratic Presidential candidates, Humphrey, McCarthy and Kennedy, in suggesting a "new" approach to Mao Tse-tung had its predictable results: the Red Chinese, thinking they might get more by waiting, postponed ambassadorial talks with the U.S. in Warsaw until "after the election."

Johnson's Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach had pulled a bad enough pre-campaign blooper by hinting that the United States was considering relaxing its embargo on trade with China. The whole performance by Rockefeller, Humphrey, McCarthy, Kennedy, and Katzenbach worked to negate their objectives. The way to deal with the Red Chinese is not to begin with an offer of your own, but to start by saying "I chi hua," which means, slangily, "You say how much."

Nixon, with more experience of the world, including the world of the Communists, than anybody else, wisely kept his mouth shut on matters that might boomerang. He acted as the true moderate.

Domestically, Nixon cut in ahead of Rockefeller when he took up the cause of "black capitalism." How Rocky muffed this is incomprehensible, for Rockefeller funds have flowed for many years into Negro self-help activities, and Jackie Robinson, Rockefeller's adviser on race relations, is a force in the so-called Freedom Bank in New York's Harlem. When Dr. Thomas Matthew, a leading proponent of Negro self-help, tried to see Rockefeller, he was rebuffed. But Nixon opened his doors to Matthew and even to the representatives of CORE, which is for militancy in presenting black power demands.

One lesson of the past six months in Republican politics is that you never win by waiting for the other fellow to lose. The way to make a man stumble is to battle him to the wire, causing him to lose sleep, to make hurried judgments, and to call in experts who are not so expert in the vain hope of coming up with some miracle to cancel the blooper that has been made in the last three o'clock-in-the-morning decision. A second lesson of the last six months is that the moderate Republicans do not know when to leave well-enough alone. They had a "centrist" candidate in Nixon from the very start, so why didn't they do something for their own reputations — and their own future patronage — by taking what had been offered them by fate after the Gold-water tide had receded?

Making the unwanted circumstance as distasteful as possible provides a powerful incentive for destroying it.

Crisp Cash

"Dirty money" is an expression used to express contempt, moral superiority, or — heaven forbid that it should ever be admitted — envy when one hears of someone making a fast profit in dubious circumstances.

This is not meant literally, of course. Even the dirtiest and most jaded $10 bill is welcome on arrival, cherished during its stay, and relinquished reluctantly.

But there is something appealing about printing-press freshness of new bills. Crisp bills give a delight that the old, limp and weary never can.

So, why doesn't some genius invent washable money? No germs, no limpness — only nice crisp bills, even if they won't buy much.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Can a relatively small, family owned business thrive in a U.S. oil industry dominated by multibillion dollar giants?

"Why not?" asks Jack Vickers Jr. "It has a lot of things in its favor, and it doesn't have to keep 18 million stockholders happy."

Vickers at 42 is board chairman of the Vickers Petroleum Co., Inc., headquartered in Wichita, Kan., which is celebrating its golden anniversary this year.

The firm, now in the $30-million-a-year class, refines petrochemicals and operates 800 service stations in six Midwest and southwest states.

In 1918, Jack Vickers Sr., a chance-taking young man as much at home aboard a polo pony as an oil rig, borrowed $5,000 and gambled it all on a single oil lease. He hit black gold.

Parlaying his winnings, young Jack soon has his production up to 500 barrels a day, then started marketing his own products, also steadily investing in new leases.

He had a family empire consisting of a wife and eight children.

dren. He wanted to build a business empire, too, and keep it in the family. At his death at the early age of 49 in 1940, his firm was grossing more than $11 million a year. He left control of it to members of the family in a series of trusts.

Jack Jr., left the University of Oklahoma at 20 to become an oil scout, and soon proved he had his father's luck and skill. By 1950 he had become a vice president, by 1952 chief executive of the firm.

Today, Jack, his mother, and two brothers are among the seven directors of the family corporation.

ation. A total of 26 Vickers, including Jack's seven children, cheer its continuing success.

Jack gives most credit to his mother, Helen Vickers Pringer, now in her early seventies.

"She puts an iron hand on any of us if we get out of hand," said the dark-haired, athletically built executive.

"Family owned corporation has a number of advantages, one being that others can't steal it out from under you."

"We have had our arguments behind closed doors, but we were always holding hands when we came out."

25 YEARS AGO
JUNE, 1943

Ervin Leist, 109 Seyfert Ave., was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army and ordered to Carlisle Barracks, Pa., for schooling in medical field service.

Circleville business men and their employees appeared at the Winorr Canning plant to help relieve the plant's regular employees who had worked long hours in an effort to complete canning of peas.

Cyclonic winds struck the northern part of the county causing havoc with phone and power lines. Many parts of the county were hit by torrential rains. Some streams went out of their banks within 15 minutes. The storm struck after the temperature reached a record high, 93 degrees, for the year.

While the city of Circleville and Ashville and Williamsport communities operated on Eastern War or Fast time, the clock at the courthouse remained one hour behind. The county commissioners decided to keep on the schedule established by the Ohio Legislature.

Miss Marcellette Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Kerr, 419 Watt St.

received a commission from officer's candidate school as a lieutenant in the WAC. She was chosen to attend advanced officer's training school at Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

Pickaway County's wheat crop was severely damaged by red and black stem rust. Loss was as high as 80 percent in a single field. The grain was plowed under in some areas.

Mr. and Mrs. George O. Goodchild, who had served for 20 years as superintendent and matron of the Pickaway County Children's Home, announced the resignation of their posts as of October 1.

On June 26, the temperature climbed to 95 degrees setting a season record.

Miss Mary L. Stanhagen of Amanda was one of the 100 students chosen to attend the University of Colorado to learn the Japanese language. The navy provided the training as part of their program to train interpreters who would join the U.S. fighting men when they occupied Japan.

Restrictions were put on the buying of firearms by Police Chief W. F. McCrady. Local businesses were alerted. Any person wishing to purchase firearms in Circleville had to appear in police headquarters for fingerprinting and to obtain a permit signed by the chief.

Kansas Youth Spelling Champ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert L. Walters, eighth-grader from Russell, Kan., won today the 41st National Spelling Bee championship.

He was locked in a tight race down to the finish with Ann Johnson, also an eighth-grader, from Richfield, Minn.

The final stumper for Ann was "myosin," a substance extracted from muscles which she spelled incorrectly "myacin."

Robert, according to Spelling Bee rules, correctly spelled the word missed by the other finalist and then spelled correctly "abalone," a type of tuna fish frequently found in cans in grocery stores.

FRANK SINATRA, JR., embarked upon a career of his own on the night-club and TV circuits, labors, of course, under the shadow of his father, admittedly the tops when it comes to putting over a song. Frank, Jr., has now achieved stardom, too, and can afford to kid his famous pater now and then. In his current act, Frank, Jr. remarks, "He's gotten used to it all now, I think. But the first time I kidded him on stage he told me, 'Very funny, son — and right now I'm looking for a loophole in your birth certificate.'"

Bob Hope explains that he got started in TV in 1949 "before Milton Berle used all his material." On his first show, an introductory wisecrack brought a solitary laugh from an assistant planted in the audience. "Not yet, Charlie," cracked Hope hastily, "but don't you leave!" Hope is away from home so often that his daughter Linda claims, "I was twelve years old before I learned he wasn't an airline pilot!"

In contrast to the mealy-mouthed evasions of so many current politicians and other big-wigs, it's refreshing to encounter the reminiscences of Musician Oscar Levant who, explaining the break-up of his first marriage, wrote, "Not only were we incompatible, but we hated each other."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What causes a "Charley Horse" and what can be done about it?

So many readers have posed this question recently about painful leg cramps that I am repeating today a column I wrote several years ago:

Many of us have been awakened at one time or another from a deep, comfortable sleep by a sudden painful cramp in the muscles of the leg. If you have, then you know how distressing, even terrifying these spasms can be. Although they may last for only a few minutes, when they recur frequently they cause great anxiety.

Painfully annoying, too, are the cramps that occur while you are awake. The "Charley Horse," which plagues athletes, falls into this last category.

Cramps are caused by narrowing or spasm of the arteries that bring nourishing blood and oxygen to the muscles of the legs. The causes are many and varied.

In the elderly, arteriosclerosis is one of the major causes that impair the normal flow of blood. Another condition, a rather peculiar one, occurs in people whose parents come from mid-European countries. It is called "Buerger's Disease," named after the man who first described it.

This is a condition associated with a sensitivity to tobacco.

There are many simple causes of leg cramps, too. Bed sheets too tightly bound down, tight garters that restrict the circulation of blood, even improperly-fitting shoes may cause leg cramps.

In most instances, night cramps are more uncomfortable than serious. However, if they persist, the exact cause should be determined and removed. These leg cramps cry for attention and refuse to be neglected.

Every conceivable suggestion has been made by solicitous members of the family when a painful spasm disturbs your night's sleep. They vary from sound medical truths to the most bizarre and far-fetched. "The leg is having a bad dream and wants to wake up" is a typical comment.

When a painful cramp wakes you, don't slap, kick or bruise that tender leg as somebody may suggest. It has troubles enough without that old wives' remedy.

Better, try to walk slowly, or gently massage the leg. The spasm of the blood vessels responsible for the cramps will soon disappear. Generally, if you relax, the spasm will.

If pain persists, warm, moist towels applied to the leg brings comfort and relief. Recently, quinine prescribed in special doses by doctors and taken at bedtime seems to prevent these recurrent spasms.

All leg cramps deserve attention. Drugs and controlled exercise can diminish the frequency and severity of the cramps. Most important, anxiety can be relieved by the reassurance that comes with a thorough medical check-up.

Fear and anxiety do not flourish in the climate of hope.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — A few well regarded economists who sometimes have been accused of looking at the most dismal side of society reached agreement among themselves the other day that perhaps things weren't as bad as they looked.

One of the real maladies, they felt, was the snapshot syndrome. This is an illness, they said, that affects a range of students, workers, businessmen, sociologists, economists, educators. Its symptoms are intellectual nearsightedness, an ignorance of history, an inability to view society as anything but static.

The snapshot syndrome causes the viewer to see everything in black and white, like a photograph, and to focus on the immediate problems without attempting to place these problems in perspective. This viewer never asks if things are better or worse; he observes only that they are very bad.

Said one economist: "They can relate only to what has happened in the past four or five years. Beyond that they're liable to think of President Eisenhower and Washington as contemporaries. And they can't see any farther into the future."

Perhaps fitting into their contempt of things was the Commerce Department report this week showing that the number of poverty families dropped sharply from 1959 to 1966.

More than six million families lived in poverty in 1966, or 12.4 per cent of all families. The breakdown by color was much worse: 34.9 per cent of all Negro families were in poverty, compared with 9.9 per cent of white families.

These are the figures that now cause so much concern in America and which, in the view of some authorities, endanger the future of American life. But they are not static figures. They are changing.

Despite a smaller population in 1959, conditions then were worse. About 8.3 million families lived in poverty, or 18 per cent of all families. Nearly 50 per cent of Negro families and 15 per cent of whites were poverty stricken.

Bad as the later figures are then, the proportion of Americans living in poverty conditions fell from 18 per cent in 1959 to 12.4 per cent in 1966.

The big danger is that improvement will continue along color lines. Not only is the percentage of Negro poverty much larger than that for whites, but improvement among Negroes actually has been slower.

Satisfying the Moderates

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

From November to June they — meaning the Republicans who call themselves the moderates — waited for Richard Nixon to stumble. But primary after primary went by, and Nixon made no serious errors. So now, after a whopping victory in an Oregon that would probably have gone for Gov. Rockefeller if the chief hope of the moderates had only allowed his name to stay on the local primary ballot, Nixon is sitting pretty.

The only person who has even a remote chance of heading him off is California's Ronald Reagan, and Reagan is not likely to commend himself to the moderates as a substitute for Rockefeller.

Now that the moderates have repeated their fiasco of 1961, one wonders at their wisdom in opposing Nixon in the first place. For the truth of the matter is that Nixon is no flaming "rightist." Why the eastern seaboard Republican liberals should ever have been against Nixon has always mystified me. (The "can't win" tag is a phony; it took a couple of things like Cook County to keep Nixon from winning in 1960.)

True enough, Nixon has been hawkish on Vietnam. But he has been hawkish because he wanted a quick end to the war through the canny exercise of political power, not through an "escalation" of military action that would have provoked a Red Chinese invasion of Vietnam. He has been for bringing economic pressure to bear on the Soviet Union, hoping to compel Brezhnev and Kosygin to de-escalate their own commitment to Ho Chi Minh. This wouldn't involve an invasion of the enemy's "privileged sanctuaries" in Laos and Cambodia; indeed, Nixon was long ago on record as opposing any geographical extension of the war into supposedly neutral territory.

When President Johnson sent back on the bombing and sent Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance to meet the North Vietnamese at Paris, Nixon wisely said he'd do nothing that might hinder the Administration on its quest for an honorable peace. Rockefeller, on the other hand, went on talking about some superior "regional" deal on Southeast Asia. He spoke of opening a dialogue with the Red Chinese, looking to split them apart from the Soviet Union. But at the same time he insulted the Red Chinese by referring hopefully to the historic anti-Chinese sentiment in Southeast Asia.

The fact that Rockefeller had joined with three Democratic Presidential candidates, swept to the banks of the Suez Canal, Humphrey, McCarthy and Kennedy, in suggesting a "new" approach to Mao Tse-tung had its predictable results: the Red Chinese, thinking they might get more by waiting, postponed ambassadorial talks with the U.S. in Warsaw until "after the election."

Johnson's Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach had pulled a bad enough pre-campaign blunder by hinting that the United States was considering relaxing its embargo on trade with China. The whole performance by Rockefeller, Humphrey, McCarthy, Kennedy, and Katzenbach worked to negate their objectives. The way to deal with the Red Chinese is not to begin with an offer of your own, but to start by saying "I chi hua," which means, slangily, "You say how much."

Nixon, with more experience of the world, including the world of the Communists, than anybody else, wisely kept his mouth shut on matters that might boomerang. He acted as the true moderate.

Domestically, Nixon cut in ahead of Rockefeller when he took up the cause of "black capitalism." How Rocky muffed this is incomprehensible, for Rockefeller funds have flowed for many years into Negro self-help activities, and Jackie Robinson, Rockefeller's adviser on race relations, is a force in the so-called Freedom Bank in New York's Harlem. When Dr. Thomas Matthew, a leading proponent of Negro self-help, tried to see Rockefeller, he was rebuffed. But Nixon opened his doors to Matthew and even to the representatives of CORE, which is for militancy in presenting black power demands.

One lesson of the past six months in Republican politics is that you never win by waiting for the other fellow to lose.

The way to make a man stumble is to battle him to the wire, causing him to lose sleep, to make hurried judgments, and to call in experts who are not so expert in the vain hope of coming up with some miracle to cancel the blunder that has been made in the last three o'clock-in-the-morning decision. A second lesson of the last six months is that the moderate Republicans do not know when to leave well-enough alone. They had a "centrist" candidate in Nixon from the very start, so why didn't they do something for their own reputations — and their own future patronage — by taking what had been offered them by fate after the Gold-water tide had receded?

Recess Balks Peace Parley

Both Sides Still Want To Continue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam ceasefire talks were bogged down today in their longest recess so far, but both the United States and North Vietnam have given the impression that they want to keep the talks going indefinitely.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam talked for almost four hours Wednesday in their seventh session in four weeks, made no apparent progress toward de-escalating the war, and adjourned until next Wednesday, largely at North Vietnam's suggestion.

Thuy maintained his demand that all attacks on his country must stop before other issues are discussed. Harriman continued to call for North Vietnamese de-escalation to justify any further limit on American military operations.

Harriman made a probe to find out whether North Vietnam is in process of softening its position on ending the bombing. Thuy's first reaction was negative; he again asked when the United States would stop all bombing.

The probe was based on a statement made by the North Vietnamese Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan last week. It said the United States must "acknowledge its responsibility" for stopping all attacks on the North. Later, according to U.S. diplomats, Hanoi changed States must "determine" its responsibility.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

He Resents Wife's Soldier Pen Pal

DEAR ABBY: Last November I saw a piece in your column about what the boys in Vietnam wanted for Christmas, and one lonely soldier said he wanted mail. Well I wrote to him, and we started up a correspondence. He is only 20 years old. I have a son about his age, as well as other children.

This lonely soldier wrote many wonderful letters and he even sent pictures of himself. I wrote to him and sent some packages. My children feel like they know him. At first my husband was all for it. But here is the problem.

My husband is jealous of this kid. I am 35 years old and I think of this boy as a "son." I even start my letters to him DEAR SON. And he writes "Dear Mom" to me. (His own mother is dead, and he has had a rough life.)

I told my husband there was nothing between us, but he says he wants me to quit writing. Abby, I can't let this boy down now. I even invited him to visit us when he gets out in June.

My husband won't listen to me. He says he doesn't want any more mail going between us and to tell the kid he isn't welcome here. I would like your advice on this matter. If something were to happen to this boy I would always think it was my fault.

MIDWEST MOM
DEAR MOM: I think your husband is wrong, immature and evil-minded, but that's another problem. Don't defy him, however, but do try to get someone to show him the kinks in his thinking, and implore him to change his mind. Of course with your husband's present attitude, you cannot allow the boy to visit you.

DEAR ABBY: You were so right when you told that woman that she could report the driving ability of someone she knows to be a menace on the streets, but you couldn't guarantee that she would get results.

About 10 years ago I reported my grandfather who was about to apply for a renewal of his driver's license. I suggested that he be carefully tested because he had no right to be driving a car. To prove that I wasn't some crank, I even signed my name.

Nothing was done about it. I didn't even receive a courteous reply to my letter. My grandfather resumed driving.

Now a few facts about grandfather: He was so blind he couldn't read a newspaper without a magnifying glass. (This, in addition to his reading glasses!) He boasted that he never signaled for anything. In fact, when other drivers signaled he would bet on their doing exactly the opposite, and would act accordingly, and he was usually right. His wife used to laugh over the "amusing" incidents relating to Grandfather's poor driving—such as the store owners who reserved special parking places for him, where his slam-bang driving wouldn't cause too much damage to the others cars. There were other incidents involving property damage, knocking over stop signs, fire hydrants, etc.

In retrospect, I am thankful that nothing more serious resulted from Grandfather's notorious driving. Now I pray that there are no well-meaning "Grandpas" charging thru our town when my children come home from school.

NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter. It might keep some other girl from making the same mistake I made.

I went with a boy all semester. The only place he ever took me was out to park. He told me he loved me, and I flipped for him, but when it came time to ask a girl to the prom he asked another girl. I felt so hurt I wanted to die.

When my girl friend asked him how come he didn't ask me, he said, "Oh, she's okay for a make-out, but a guy likes to be seen in public with a girl he respects."

Recess Balks Peace Parley

Both Sides Still Want To Continue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam ceasefire talks were bogged down today in their longest recess so far, but both the United States and North Vietnam have given the impression that they want to keep the talks going indefinitely.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam talked for almost four hours Wednesday in their seventh session in four weeks, made no apparent progress toward de-escalating the war, and adjourned until next Wednesday, largely at North Vietnam's suggestion.

Thuy maintained his demand that all attacks on his country must stop before other issues are discussed. Harriman continued to call for North Vietnamese de-escalation to justify any further limit on American military operations.

Harriman made a probe to find out whether North Vietnam is in process of softening its position on ending the bombing. Thuy's first reaction was negative; he again asked when the United States would stop all bombing.

The probe was based on a statement made by the North Vietnamese Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan last week. It said the United States must "acknowledge its responsibility" for stopping all attacks on the North. Later, according to U.S. diplomats, Hanoi changed States must "determine" its responsibility.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

He Resents Wife's Soldier Pen Pal

DEAR ABBY: Last November I saw a piece in your column about what the boys in Vietnam wanted for Christmas, and one lonely soldier said he wanted mail. Well I wrote to him, and we started up a correspondence. He is only 20 years old. I have a son about his age, as well as other children.

This lonely soldier wrote many wonderful letters and he even sent pictures of himself. I wrote to him and sent some packages. My children feel like they know him. At first my husband was all for it. But here is the problem.

My husband is jealous of this kid. I am 35 years old and I think of this boy as a "son." I even start my letters to him "DEAR SON." And he writes "Dear Mom" to me. (His own mother is dead, and he has had a rough life.)

I told my husband there was nothing between us, but he says he wants me to quit writing. Abby, I can't let this boy down now. I even invited him to visit us when he gets out in June.

My husband won't listen to me. He says he doesn't want any more mail going between us and to tell the kid he isn't welcome here. I would like your advice on this matter. If something were to happen to this boy I would always think it was my fault.

MIDWEST MOM: I think your husband is wrong, immature and evil-minded, but that's another problem. Don't defy him, however, but do try to get someone to show him the kinks in his thinking, and implore him to change his mind. Of course with your husband's present attitude, you cannot allow the boy to visit you.

DEAR ABBY: You were so right when you told that woman that she could report the driving ability of someone she knows to be a menace on the streets, but you couldn't guarantee that she would get results.

About 10 years ago I reported my grandfather who was about to apply for a renewal of his driver's license. I suggested that he be carefully tested because he had no right to be driving a car. To prove that I wasn't some crank, I even signed my name.

Nothing was done about it. I didn't even receive a courteous reply to my letter. My grandfather resumed driving.

Now a few facts about grandfather: He was so blind he couldn't read a newspaper without a magnifying glass. (This, in addition to his reading glasses!) He boasted that he never signaled for anything. In fact, when other drivers signaled he would bet on their doing exactly the opposite, and would act accordingly, and he was usually right. His wife used to laugh over the "amusing" incidents relating to Grandfather's poor driving—such as the store owners who reserved special parking places for him, where his slam-bang driving wouldn't cause too much damage to the others cars. There were other incidents involving property damage, knocking over stop signs, fire hydrants, etc.

In retrospect, I am thankful that nothing more serious resulted from Grandfather's notorious driving. Now I pray that there are no well-meaning "Grandpas" charging thru our town when my children come home from school.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter. It might keep some other girl from making the same mistake I made.

I went with a boy all semester. The only place he ever took me was out to park. He told me he loved me, and I flipped for him, but when it came time to ask a girl to the prom he asked another girl. I felt so hurt I wanted to die.

When my girl friend asked him how come he didn't ask me, he said, "Oh, she's okay for a make-out, but a guy likes to be seen in public with a girl he respects."

Emmett Chapel WSCS Holds Tea, Program

Approximately 110 women were in attendance at a tea hosted by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church.

Mrs. C. D. Bennett presented organ music from the sanctuary as guests entered and registered. The altar was decorated with bouquets of iris and peonies.

The program, held in the sanctuary, began with Mrs. Kenneth Shepler welcoming the guests. "He Keeps Me Singing" was sung by the group.

Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe presented devotions using as a theme "The Day in Reflection." Miss Peggy Wilson played a piano solo. "Mansions Over the Hilltop" was sung by all.

Mrs. Martha Wiggins sang two solos, "Try To Remember" from Fantastiks, and "The Lost Chord."

Mrs. John Longworth, guest speaker, told of her trip to Dallas, Texas, concerning the uniting of the EUB and First Methodist Churches.

The program closed with two numbers by the Girls Ensemble from Logan Elm High School.

Refreshments were served in the social rooms with Mrs. Kenneth Shepler presiding at the coffee service and Mrs. Robert Bauer pouring the tea.

Mt. Pleasant WSCS Holds June Meeting

Mt. Pleasant WSCS met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. John Moss with 19 members present.

Mrs. Oscar Atwood, president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Boyd Moody was in charge of devotions and program. She used as her theme "the Jordan Road." The group sang "Trust and obey." Mrs. Moody presented prayer. Mrs. Lloyd Posey read a scripture selection. Scripture passages on baptism were read by Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Marion Mowery, Mrs. Forest Hopkins and Mildred Turner.

Mrs. Robert Miller gave a reading on "Symbolic Cleansing." Mrs. Roy Rittinger read a poem entitled "Walking With Jesus." The group sang, "He Leadeth Me."

Purchasing of linoleum for the church kitchen was discussed. The group voted not to hold meetings in July and August. Thank-you notes were read from the Veterans Hospital at Chillicothe, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Warner, Daie Jenne, Donna Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Rittinger and son Mike.

During the social hour Mrs. Moody conducted a game on commercial advertisements with Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Atwood as winners. The monthly auction was held with Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Miller furnishing the articles for sale.

The next monthly meeting will be 7:30 p.m. Sept. 3, at the home of Mrs. John Dearth.

Consomme Dishes Win Consumer Contentment

By ALICE DENHOF

Canned condensed consomme is a miracle worker & a variety of recipes.

Here is a batch of them we hope you'll try. The first:

LOBSTER POT

3 cans (10½ oz. each) condensed consomme

1 can (6 oz.) lobster, drained and flaked

½ c. cubed avocado

¼ c. chopped celery

2 tsp. each chopped green onion and lemon juice

Dash Tabasco

Dash pepper

Combine consomme with other ingredients. Chill until jellied — about 4 hours. Stir when partially jellied to distribute lobster and vegetables. Serve with lemon wedges, if desired. This serves 4 to 6.

PARFAIT CONSOMME

1 can (10½ oz.) condensed consomme

½ c. sour cream

2 tsp. chopped chives

Place unopened can of consomme in refrigerator. Remove when consomme has jellied. To serve, spoon a little consomme into each of 2 or 3 parfait glasses; top with sour cream. Repeat layers; sprinkle chives on top.

'SOUPER' STROGANOFF

1½ lb. round steak, cut in thin strips

¼ c. flour

Dash pepper

¼ c. butter or margarine

1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained

½ c. chopped onions

1 small garlic clove, minced

1 can (10½ oz.) condensed consomme

1 c. sour cream

3 c. cooked noodles

Dust meat with flour and pepper. In skillet, brown meat in butter. Add next 3 ingredients; brown lightly. Stir in soup. Cover; cook 1 hour or until meat is tender, stirring often. Gradually blend in sour cream; cook over low heat 5 min. Serve over noodles.

Makes 4 generous servings.

JELLIED SOUP SALAD

2 cans 10½ oz. each condensed consomme

¼ c. diced green pepper

2 tsp. chopped parsley

1 tsp. minced onion

1 tsp. butter or margarine

½ tsp. curry powder

¼ c. slivered blanched almonds

Dash salt

Combine first 4 ingredients. Chill until jellied — about 4 hours. Stir when partially jellied to distribute vegetables.

Melt butter in small frying pan; add remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat until lightly browned; drain.

Serve consomme in chilled bowls; top with almond mixture.

Serves 4.

Churchill's Son Dies in England

LONDON (AP) — Randolph Churchill, only son of the late Sir Winston Churchill, died early today. He was 57.

Randolph Churchill, who was engaged in writing a series of volumes about his father's life — a task he had not completed, had been reported not well for some time.

He was twice married but both marriages ended in divorce. He leaves one daughter, Arabella, and a son, Winston.

His mother, Lady Spencer Churchill, is serving as a member of the House of Lords, having been created a baroness after the death of Sir Winston.

Cause of death was not stated. A statement from his son said: "Mr. Randolph Churchill died peacefully at his home in Suffolk in the early hours of this morning after a short illness. The funeral will be private. Arrangements for a memorial

RFK Widow Sleeps Next to Coffin

NEW YORK (AP) — Ethel Kennedy, widow of the slain New York senator, slept next to her husband's coffin during part of the 4½-hour flight from Los Angeles to New York, according to NBC newsmen Sander Vanocur.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, sole surviving brother in the Kennedy family, stayed next to the coffin throughout the flight, Vanocur said, and also fell asleep for part of the time.

No reporters were allowed on the plane. NBC said Vanocur was aboard the four-engined presidential jetliner "as a friend" of the family.

The NBC newsmen said "Mrs. John F. Kennedy was aboard the plane and she sat most of the time either with her brother-in-law, Prince Radziwill, or Burke Marshall," an assistant attorney general during the Kennedy administration.

Vanocur said Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain civil rights leader, "came for a long while and talked to Mrs. John F. Kennedy. . . Mrs. John F. Kennedy spent, oh after we were in the air, about an hour with Mrs. Robert Kennedy."

Remove the white ribs, along with the seeds, when you are preparing green peppers for use in a salad or hot dish.

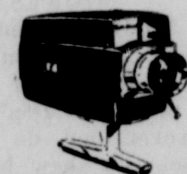

service will be announced later."

Randolph Churchill's home was at East Bergholt in County Suffolk eastern England. It was there that he was working on the volumes about his father when death overtook him. So far two of the volumes, describing Churchill's boyhood and early political career, have been published.

Cancel Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kohler, Route 2, Lancaster, have canceled the open house planned in honor of their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, as Mr. Kohler has been hospitalized.

A good salad for lunch: chill a can of tuna (7 ounce size) and drain off the oil; turn out tuna in the center of a medium-size serving plate. Surround the tuna with shredded green cabbage that has been mixed with olive oil, white wine vinegar, salt, white pepper and a little prepared mustard. Top tuna and slaw with radish roses and ripe olives.

Consomme Dishes Win Consumer Contentment

By ALICE DENHOF
Canned condensed consomme is a miracle worker & a variety of recipes.

Here is a batch of them we hope you'll try. The first:

LOBSTER POT

3 cans (10½ oz. each) condensed consomme
1 can (6 oz.) lobster, drained and flaked
½ c. cubed avocado
¼ c. chopped celery
2 tbsp. each chopped green onion and lemon juice
Dash Tabasco
Dash pepper

Combine consomme with other ingredients. Chill until jellied — about 4 hours. Stir when partially jellied to distribute lobster and vegetables. Serve with lemon wedges, if desired. This serves 4 to 6.

PARFAIT CONSOMME

1 can (10½ oz.) condensed consomme
½ c. sour cream
2 tbsp. chopped chives
Place unopened can of consomme in refrigerator. Remove when consomme has jellied. To serve, spoon a little consomme into each of 2 or 3 parfait glasses; top with sour cream. Repeat layers; sprinkle chives on top.

'SOUPER' STROGANOFF

1½ lb. round steak, cut in thin strips
¼ c. flour
Dash pepper
¼ c. butter or margarine
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
½ c. chopped onions
1 small garlic clove, minced
1 can (10½ oz.) condensed consomme
1 c. sour cream
3 c. cooked noodles
Dust meat with flour and pepper. In skillet, brown meat in butter. Add next 3 ingredients; brown lightly. Stir in soup. Cover; cook 1 hour or until meat is tender, stirring often. Gradually blend in sour cream; cook over low heat 5 min. Serve over noodles.

JELLIED SOUP SALAD

Makes 4 generous servings.
2 cans 10½ oz. each) condensed consomme
¼ c. diced green pepper
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 tsp. minced onion
1 tsp. butter or margarine
½ tsp. curry powder
¼ c. slivered blanched almonds
Dash salt
Combine first 4 ingredients. Chill until jellied — about 4 hours. Stir when partially jellied to distribute vegetables.

Melt butter in small frying pan; add remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat until lightly browned; drain.

Serve consomme in chilled bowls; top with almond mixture.

Serves 4.

Churchill's Son Dies in England

LONDON (AP) — Randolph Churchill, only son of the late Sir Winston Churchill, died early today. He was 57.

Randolph Churchill, who was engaged in writing a series of volumes about his father's life — a task he had not completed, had been reported not well for some time.

He was twice married but both marriages ended in divorce. He leaves one daughter, Arabella, and a son, Winston.

His mother, Lady Spencer Churchill, is serving as a member of the House of Lords, having been created a baroness after the death of Sir Winston.

Cause of death was not stated. A statement from his son said: "Mr. Randolph Churchill died peacefully at his home in Suffolk in the early hours of this morning after a short illness. The funeral will be private. Arrangements for a memorial

RFK Widow Sleeps Next to Coffin

NEW YORK (AP) — Ethel Kennedy, widow of the slain New York senator, slept next to her husband's coffin during part of the 4½-hour flight from Los Angeles to New York, according to NBC newsmen Sander Vanocur.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, sole surviving brother in the Kennedy family, stayed next to the coffin throughout the flight. Vanocur said, and also fell asleep for part of the time.

No reporters were allowed on the plane. NBC said Vanocur was aboard the four-engine presidential jetliner "as a friend" of the family.

The NBC newsmen said "Mrs. John F. Kennedy was aboard the plane and she sat most of the time either with her brother-in-law, Prince Radziwill, or Burke Marshall," an assistant attorney general during the Kennedy administration.

Vanocur said Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain civil rights leader, "came for a long while and talked to Mrs. John F. Kennedy." Mrs. John F. Kennedy spent, on after we were in the air, about an hour with Mrs. Robert Kennedy."

service will be announced later."

Randolph Churchill's home was at East Bergholt in County Suffolk eastern England. It was there that he was working on the volumes about his father when death overtook him. So far two of the volumes, describing Churchill's boyhood and early political career, have been published.

ne," Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said Wednesday.

A naval court of inquiry continued its hearing today into the sub's disappearance.

Moorer said the 10-day search westward from Norfolk to the Azores had failed to turn up any trace of the nuclear-powered vessel.

"With these harsh, unbending facts," Moorer concluded, "I can only ask that you join me in paying tribute to the men of the Scorpion, to their families and to their service."

Vice Adm. C. K. Duncan sent telegrams to dependents of Scorpion crew members, but Navy officials refused to release details, saying the messages were "too personal."

The court of inquiry, which opened Wednesday, heard a report from a witness that the Scorpion was 27 miles south of her prescribed route when she radioed her last position May 21.

At that time, said Cmdr. George R. Paris, the sub was 365 miles south-southwest of the Azores, approaching the pinnacles and gulfs of an underwater mountain range.

One of the earliest emotions a child experiences is fear. And from the first loud noise that awakens him until the moment of his death he knows no day without the recurrence of some foreboding danger.

From the beginning of time religion has been our tested antidote to the poison of fear. In the dark forests of antiquity, on the boiling seas of exploration, in the foxholes of modern strife, men have calmed the body's trembling with the soul's faith. We have faced the unknown, the hostile, through trust in the Known, the Faithful; we have challenged the insurmountable, confident in the power of the Almighty.

How essential, though, that each generation passes on our Faith to the next! Who dares deprive a child of the chance to conquer fear? Who would rob his son's soul of the Christian heritage martyrs died to preserve?

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Portrait of Righteousness

THE GREATNESS OF GOD PUTS MAN IN THE PROPER PERSPECTIVE

Scripture—Job 31.

By R. H. RAMSEY
THE BOOK of Job is a teaching poem written in the form of a drama. It begins with an account of disaster and ends with prosperity and joy the ultimate reward of its protagonist. Despite this, and the fact that it is hard to read, the book was obviously intended to be read rather than acted out.

We have all heard of "the patience of Job," but the book does not indicate that Job exercised any tremendous amount of that virtue. He was impatient with his wife, with friends who tried to counsel him, with his affliction, even with the Lord. It is in the matter of faith—not patience—that Job proves himself a tremendous character.

Between last week's lesson—relating the successive catastrophes that fell upon this righteous man—and this one there are long speeches by the three friends who tried to comfort Job. Claiming that suffering was always the result of sin, they urged Job to confess and repent his secret sin that had brought him to such a state. In answer Job stoutly maintained that in his situation, at least, his own wife become a slave to another man if what he has said is untrue. He asserts his faith, his hand, his heart are "not guilty" of any sin against man or the Lord.

Again using the form of contrary-to-fact conditional sentences Job tells of his one-man crusade against poverty. Throughout his life he had helped the poverty-stricken of all classes, particularly the widows and fatherless whose need was then—as now—greatest. He had shared his food with the hungry and clothed the naked. He had never lifted his hand against the fatherless or those who came to the city gates for help and/or justice.

Job indicated he had been brought up on these principles and had practiced them from his youth. Just as the thought of God's displeasure had kept him from sin and contemplation of God's majesty had kept him righteous, he had been kind to the poor and his servants out of fear of the wrath and judgment of God.

In the last part of the chapter Job clears himself of every secret feeling that could be con-such was not the case.

Today's lesson is the final part of Job's long rebuttal as he attempts to vindicate his conduct and refute the charges and insinuations of hypocrisy made against him. He does this in a series of contrary-to-fact conditional sentences listing the various iniquities from which he has kept himself free.

To refute his friends' charges Job asserts that his moral integrity and conduct have been such that he would not even look lustfully upon a maid, neither had he lived a lie nor been deceitful in his behavior or speech. He appealed to God to weigh the uprightness of his character in an even balance and, if these states proved untrue, asked that his punishment be someone else reaping what he had sown and that his family line be brought to an end.

Next Job became specific in his defense of his previous conduct, insisting he had never yielded to senuous conduct; he had never dallied with another woman nor had he coveted his neighbor's wife. So sure of this is he that he is willing to let strued as dishonorable to men or God.

His wealth had not made him greedy. To the contrary, he was indifferent to riches for he had found treasures no money could buy in the service and favor of the Lord.

Just as gold had never been his god, neither had the sun, moon nor any mystical idol.

There were those who hated him for the favor he had found with God, but he had never cursed them, sought their destruction nor rejoiced when evil times fell upon them. He had always been hospitable and no traveler had ever been turned away from his gate.

He had always been honest in his dealings with others and, while he knew he was not completely free of sin, he had never concealed his iniquities. Instead he had confessed them openly and honestly and the affliction which he was now suffering from was all out of proportion to his wrongdoing.

Despite all, Job was still confident of his ultimate reconciliation with the Lord and, turning from his friends' insinuations, challenged God to answer him.

Dems Add 16 To Executive Committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sixteen new members were named Wednesday to the Ohio Democratic Executive Committee which met here to draw up campaign plans and discuss other party matters.

The committee adopted a resolution "extending the concern and prayers of Ohio Democrats for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy."

It was announced that the party will hold its state convention here Sept. 20-21. The committee also took action to:

Endorse a state program, including fund-raising, in behalf of party nominees seeking election next November.

Back ballot Issue 2, a proposed constitutional change to grant property exemption for Ohioans over age 65 occupying their own homes.

Receive a report from Paul F. Ward of Columbus, new chairman of the Ohio Democratic Finance Committee, on plans to raise a $1 million campaign fund.

New Figure on U.S. Scene: The 'Widow of Violence'

NEW YORK (AP) — In five years of American history, the assassin's bullet has thrust upon the national scene a new type of woman—the Widow of Violence. The shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who lay in extremely critical condition in a Los Angeles hospital, drew attention anew to the procession of tragedy even as many Americans prayed that the senator's wife would escape the same fate.

First, shortly after midnight on June 11, 1963, a bullet killed civil rights leader Medgar Evers in the doorway of his Jackson, Miss., home.

Lying prone on the floor inside the house as they had been taught to do at the sound of gunfire were Evers' wife Myrlie and their three children.

Five months later, on Nov. 22, 1963, President John F. Kennedy was shot down during a Dallas, Tex., motorcade with his wife Jacqueline at his side.

And two days later Lee Harvey Oswald who the Warren Commission said killed the President was killed by Jack Ruby, leaving Oswald's Soviet-born wife with their two young-sons in an alien country.

On April 4 of this year Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was slain while standing on the balcony of a Memphis, Tenn., motel, leaving behind his wife Coretta and their four youngsters.

Of these Widows of Violence, only the wife of Oswald has been able to regain a measure of private life. The two widows of civil rights leaders chose to remain in the spotlight to carry on their husbands' crusades. At the same time Mrs. John F. Kennedy remains in the national limelight.

"When Medgar died, a part of me died. And I have just existed," said his widow a year after the tragedy. Eventually Mrs. Evers, haunted by memories in Mississippi, moved to Claremont, Calif. where she enrolled at Pomona College. Now 35, she will receive a bachelor's degree on June 8. To help keep her husband's cause alive, Mrs. Evers has written a book, "For Us, the Living." She speaks regularly at NAACP meetings around the country.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Evers said of her widowhood, "You learn to adjust and keep going, but you never get over it."

The courage and gallantry that sustained Mrs. Kennedy during the ordeal of her husband's death, her majesty and sense of history in carrying out the President's state funeral, captured the admiration of the world. But the world did not let her retreat into anonymity after leaving the White House. To escape the curious, she gave up her Georgetown home in hope of finding privacy in New York—without success.

Portrait of Righteousness

THE GREATNESS OF GOD PUTS MAN IN THE PROPER PERSPECTIVE

Scripture—Job 31.

By R. H. RAMSEY
THE BOOK of Job is a teaching poem written in the form of a drama. It begins with an account of disaster and ends with prosperity and joy the ultimate reward of its protagonist. Despite this, and the fact that it is hard to read, the book was obviously intended to be read rather than acted out.

We have all heard of "the patience of Job," but the book does not indicate that Job exercised any tremendous amount of that virtue. He was impatient with his wife, with friends who tried to counsel him, with his affliction, even with the Lord. It is in the matter of faith—not patience—that Job proves himself a tremendous character.

Between last week's lesson—relating the successive catastrophes that fell upon this righteous man—and this one there are long speeches by the three friends who tried to comfort Job. Claiming that suffering was always the result of sin, they urged Job to confess and repent his secret sin that had brought him to such a state. In answer Job stoutly maintained that in his situation, at least, his own wife become a slave to another man if what he has said is untrue. He asserts his foot, his hand, his heart are "not guilty" of any sin against man or the Lord.

Again using the form of contrary-to-fact conditional sentences Job tells of his one-man crusade against poverty. Throughout his life he had helped the poverty-stricken of all classes, particularly the widows and fatherless whose need was then—as now—greatest. He had shared his food with the hungry and clothed the naked. He had never lifted his hand against the fatherless or those who came to the city gates for help and/or justice.

Job indicated he had been brought up on these principles and had practiced them from his youth. Just as the thought of God's displeasure had kept him from sin and contemplation of God's majesty had kept him righteous, he had been kind to the poor and his servants out of fear of the wrath and judgment of God.

In the last part of the chapter Job clears himself of every secret feeling that could be con-

GOLDEN TEXT
"Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life."—Proverbs 4:23.

such was not the case.

Today's lesson is the final part of Job's long rebuttal as he attempts to vindicate his conduct and refute the charges and insinuations of hypocrisy made against him. He does this in a series of contrary-to-fact conditional sentences listing the various iniquities from which he has kept himself free.

To refute his friends' charges Job asserts that his moral integrity and conduct have been such that he would not even look lustfully upon a maid, neither had he lived a lie nor been deceitful in his behavior or speech. He appealed to God to weigh the uprightness of his character in an even balance and, if these states proved untrue, asked that his punishment be someone else reaping what he had sown and that his family line be brought to an end.

Next Job became specific in his defense of his previous conduct, insisting he had never yielded to sensuous conduct; he had never dallied with another woman nor had he coveted his neighbor's wife. So sure of this is he that he is willing to let strued as dishonorable to men or God.

His wealth had not made him greedy. To the contrary, he was indifferent to riches for he had found treasures no money could buy in the service and favor of the Lord.

Just as gold had never been his god, neither had the sun, moon nor any mystical idol. There were those who hated him for the favor he had found with God, but he had never cursed them, sought their destruction nor rejoiced when evil times fell upon them. He had always been hospitable and no traveler had ever been turned away from his gate.

He had always been honest in his dealings with others and, while he knew he was not completely free of sin, he had never concealed his iniquities. Instead he had confessed them openly and honestly and the affliction which he was now suffering from was all out of proportion to his wrongdoing.

Despite all, Job was still confident of his ultimate reconciliation with the Lord and, turning from his friends' insinuations, challenged God to answer him.

NEW YORK (AP) — The day that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died became, through the intimacy of television, a long period of emotion, introspection and grief for millions of people.

From the moment early Thursday that press secretary Frank Mankiewicz, in a voice muted and tight with strain, announced that the 42-year-old presidential aspirant had succumbed to an assassin's bullet, the television networks carried the story in detail into countless American homes. And again, they performed magnificently, efficiently and—above all—with taste and respect for the bereavement of the Kennedy family.

NBC abandoned regular programming for the entire day and concentrated on the Kennedy tragedy. CBS and ABC returned to regular programming for some periods but were on deck for all the important, visual aspects of the period.

How Negro Soldiers View Race Violence

CAM RANH BAY, Vietnam (AP)—What is going to happen to the civil rights movement when thousands of Negro fighting men return to the United States from Vietnam?

One possible answer is that militancy will take on a more violent meaning than ever. But another answer, given by a Negro soldier in Vietnam with different ideas, is: "It's not always in your fist. We build, not burn."

Perhaps Seabee Barry P. Wright, 24, of Chicago, developed his ideas through his construction work as a heavy equipment operator at this giant port installation on the South China Sea Coast.

But Wright has a more practical explanation: "It's our homes that are burning. It's our loved ones that are getting killed. It's our neighborhoods that are unsafe. So where are you going to get by being militant?"

To get his point across to other Negro servicemen, Wright has formed a group he calls Negro Veterans from Vietnam. He says: "We are asking the Negro serviceman, who shared equally in fear and death in Vietnam, to unite and go home and help the people; to extend his hand to those who need help, to be constructive."

Wright spreads his ideas through a mimeographed letter passed out to troops—both black and white—and through personal appeals. He reports 2,170 members.

Since he is scheduled to leave Vietnam next month, Wright has his parents coordinating things back in the States.

He has distributed cards asking servicemen when they are due to return home and when they get out of service. These are stamped with his parents' address in Chicago.

"We'll break up into squads and go into the ghettos just like we break up into squads and go into the hills here," Wright says. "I'm going to devote all of my time to this group when I return home."

"The first thing I'm going to do is buy an old tractor-trailer rig with the money I saved and begin classes on trucking and driving. This won't cost the students one cent."

Not everyone at Cam Ranh Bay has taken to Wright's new organization cheerfully. Recently, he said, two members of the base security force burned a five-foot cross in protest.

Dayton Mother Kills Children, Wounds Self

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An East Dayton mother apparently tried to take her own life after fatally stabbing her two young children while they slept late Thursday night, police reported.

The mother, Mrs. Poke Lockharde, 23, underwent surgery for stab wounds in Miami Valley Hospital.

The dead children were identified as Carolyn Sue, 22 months, and Sharon, 10 months.

Voice of America Chief Resigns After Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former television personality John Charles Daly has quit as head of the Voice of America, accusing his boss of "executive undercutting" and "maladministration" in the transfer of a Daly aide.

Daly submitted his resignation Thursday, effective immediately, to Leonard Marks, director of the United States Information Agency. He complained that Marks' office transferred one of his VOA aides while Daly was abroad.

Marks promptly accepted the resignation. He sent Daly a letter praising his one-year record as chief of the U.S. government overseas radio.

The 54-year-old Daly, a broadcast journalist, moderator of the former TV panel show, "What's My Line?", and son-in-law of Chief Justice Earl Warren, was appointed to the VOA post by President Johnson May 29, 1967.

Marks, a communications lawyer and friend of the President, runs USIA, which handles government propaganda abroad and is the parent agency of the VOA. The VOA, with an annual budget of $34 million, operates 101 transmitters around the world and beams programs in 36 languages.

Daly said he has not shaped his plans after leaving his $24,500-a-year government position.

His deputy, USIA career officer Richard G. Cushing, is slated to be acting VOA director.

The Daly-Marks row apparently flared after Daly returned from a globe-circling trip a month ago to find one of his senior officials, Leonard Reed, chief of the VOA's World Wide English Division, under orders to transfer to the USIA press and publications service.

St. Louis Mound Veteran Finds Competition Tough

By MIKE RECHT
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bob Gibson is having plenty of trouble trying to keep up with three youngsters on the St. Louis pitching staff, but the Cardinals are enjoying the competition—even if the rest of the National League isn't.

Gibson, long considered one of baseball's best pitchers, blanked the Houston Astros 4-0 on three hits Thursday night for St. Louis' ninth straight victory that put them 3½ games ahead of the field.

However, the gem only evened the 32-year-old Gibson's record at 5-5, still worse than Steve Carlton, 23 years old, at 7-1; Nelson Briles, 24, at 6-4, and Larry Jaster, 24, at 4-2.

Gibson lowered his earned run average to 1.52, still second to Jaster's 0.98. Carlton is 2.02 and Briles 2.33.

Tribe, White Sox Mentors Present Battle of Minds

CLEVELAND (AP) — Managers Alvin Dark of the Cleveland Indians and Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox staged a masterminding exhibition for the 32,442 fans—many of them Plain Dealer Grandstand Managers — at Cleveland Stadium Thursday night as the Indians won 2-1 in 11 innings.

Dark's last move was to call on a gimpy-legged Vic Davalillo to pinch hit for pitcher Bill Rohr and the outfielder slapped a single to center field to bring home the winning run with two out.

Davalillo, the 34th player to enter the game, worked the count to 3-2 against reliever Don McMahon before hitting a line drive that scored Duke Sims, who led off with a walk on four pitches and was sacrificed to second by Jose Cardenal.

"I was swinging," Davalillo exclaimed in the clubhouse. "It was a curve ball, a good pitch."

The triumph gave the Indians a sweep of the four-game series—all one-run victories—and enabled them to move into second place in the American League race.

The Indians have won all six of their games with the White Sox this season and have given up only five runs in the 61 innings played between the two teams.

Driver Wins 3 at Scioto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Driver Bob Taylor of Lima earned three victories Thursday night at Scioto Downs.

Taylor was at the reins when Fair Teaky, Julia M. Direct and D. D. Express crossed the wire to victory in the second, third and fourth races.

In the feature race, Hedy Thistle, owned by Fred Sheets of Sunbury, toured the mile in 2:06 2-5 for the victory and paid backers $20, $12 and $7.40.

The 5-1 daily double combination of Smart Eddie and Fair Teaky returned $57.40.

Pony Pull Slated At Fairgrounds

The Pickaway County Fairgrounds will be the site of a pony pull beginning 1 p.m. Sunday.

The Southern Ohio Pony Pullers Assn. is sponsoring the event. There will be two classes—for ponies 46 inches and under and ponies 50 inches and under.

A trophy will be given in each class to the persons bringing a team from the furthest distance.

Major Events Are Canceled Or Postponed

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
The sports world will join the rest of the nation in paying tribute to the slain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy this weekend in the only way it can—by postponing some events and canceling others.

Affected sports include major and minor league baseball, thoroughbred and harness racing, boxing, auto racing and power boat racing. But all was not harmonious.

The New York Mets balked at playing baseball at all Saturday and said they would not show up for their scheduled game against the Giants in San Francisco. New York's Belmont Park will hold its Saturday racing program against the wishes of its board of trustees by order of the State Racing Commission.

Three major league baseball games scheduled for Saturday were postponed and none of the others will start until after the funeral. Two Sunday games also were put off. Today's schedule remains intact.

Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert ordered the postponement of Saturday games in Washington and New York and directed that the start of all other contests be delayed until after the burial.

Three games scheduled for the afternoon were changed to night contests. But the Chicago Cubs, whose Wrigley Field has no lights, were forced to postpone their game with Atlanta.

The Mets' players took two ballots Thursday and voted unanimously both times not to play Saturday. The Giants had scheduled Saturday as Bat Day, a club promotion, and a crowd of more than 30,000 was expected.

The Mets' front office backed up the players 100 per cent. Both M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board, and Johnny Murphy, vice president and general manager, said they were in complete sympathy with the Mets' players.

Under baseball law, the Giants can insist that the game be played and can claim a forfeit if the Mets fail to appear.

The Giants originally announced the game would be played at 4 p.m., PDT, instead of 1 p.m.

Elsewhere, the American Zone Davis Cup tennis final at Charlotte, N.C., between the United States and Ecuador will go on as scheduled. So will the Speedway Open Golf Tournament at Indianapolis, Ind.

Belmont Park canceled today's racing program, which included the 68th annual Grand National Steeplechase. The race will be run next Friday. Belmont wanted to cancel Saturday's card, as well.

The state gets about $500,000 in tax revenue from a normal Saturday at Belmont.

However, eight New York State tracks—two thoroughbred and six harness plants—canceled today's programs.

In California, where Sen. Kennedy was assassinated, the state commission ruled that Bay Meadows, Golden Gate Fields and Hollywood Park would operate today and Saturday.

The Emile Griffith-Andy Heilman 12-round middleweight fight at Oakland was postponed from tonight to Tuesday night. The President's Cup Regatta, a Washington, D.C., fixture for hydroplanes, has been postponed indefinitely. It was scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Paul Popovich doubled off Ron Kline for two runs charged to loser Tommie Sisk, 2-2, and Tom Haller and Bob Bailey each singled in runs.

The Mets completed their first series sweep—three games—since July, 1966, as Dick Selma, 5-0, became the first Met to win five games in a row. He needed help from Ron Taylor in the seventh. Ed Charles slammed two homers for three New York runs off Ken Holtzman, 4-4.

Hart's homers and six runs batted in for San Francisco made him the league's top home run hitter with 11 and among the leaders in RBI with 29. They also helped Juan Marichal win his 10th game, tops in the majors. Marichal, who has lost twice, scattered seven hits.

Prairie Squaws Hold Annual Awards Banquet

Prairie Squaws Bowling League held its awards banquet Monday at Wardell Party Home. Ginny Davis, president of the group, presented trophies.

First place with most games won was team four, composed of Barbara Betts, Marilyn Arledge and Nancy Strawser. Second place for high total pins was team two, composed of Rosemary Flowers, Catherine Hartley and Charlotte Coleman. High average was Barbara Betts' 141. High game trophy went to Gerry Diltz with a 233. High series was Rosemary Flowers' 529. Helen Weaver was presented the low average trophy with a 114. Most improved bowler was Linda Johnson, who added 11 pins to her average.

Club pins for 200 games went to Charlotte Coleman, Jean Coleman and Barbara Betts. Pins for 225 games went to Rosemary Flowers and Gerry Diltz. Pins for 500 series were awarded to Gerry Diltz, Violet Clifton and Rosemary Flowers.

Ginny Davis was presented a flower arrangement for her work as president. Centerpieces were won by Martha O'Dell and Barbara VanBuskirk.

Officers will remain the same for next year's season. They are Ginny Davis, president; Olive Lovett, vice president; Rosemary Flowers, secretary-treasurer; and Barbara Betts, sergeant at arms.

Notre Dame Endures Money Squeeze

(Fifth in six-part series)
By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — As Notre Dame's head football Coach Ara Parseghian pores over his desk, the eyes of the late Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy glare down from the wall of the tight upstairs office in the Rockne Memorial Building.

Next door can be heard the whirring of movie cameras and down the hall the clatter of action on a half dozen indoor handball courts.

Across the way, towering young giants still dress in the dingy catacombs of the 37-year-old Notre Dame Stadium, each day passing a plaque memorializing Rockne's famed exhortation to "Win one for the Gipper."

Football at Notre Dame is subdued grandeur. It keeps pace with the jet age present without losing the links to its colorful past.

The independent Fighting Irish traditionally play the toughest schedule of any college team in the country and, except for rare lapses, have managed to be a constant top contender. Since 1924, when the ratings began, they have won nine national crowns and retired two champions trophies by winning each three times. They were No. 1 in 1966, fifth last year.

Located in the heart of the Middle West, the Irish find themselves natural rivals with the powerful Big Ten, with its swelling student populations, 50,000 to 101,000 seat stadiums and multimillion-dollar athletic budgets.

Although Big Ten members play before an average of 60,000 fans a game they, as many other big time universities, are experiencing financial difficulties in sports because of skyrocketing inflation.

Notre Dame is managing to operate in the black.

"Our sports programs, even football, are operated as just another part of the university life," explained Herb Jones, the athletic business manager. "We don't have a separate athletic fund. All our money goes into the school treasury. The school is responsible for meeting our budget."

"We pay our own way."

Unlike a majority of other universities, Notre Dame has not had an astronomical climb in enrollment. The campus count is 7,100—compared with around 5,000 after World War II—and well below the enrollment of rival

Reds' Manager Optimistic As Cardinal Series Starts

CINCINNATI (AP) — Reinforced by recent performances of four mainstays, the Cincinnati Reds take on league-leading St. Louis here in a four-game series starting tonight.

Cincinnati, with a team batting average of .263 that tops the majors, stands 25-24 on the season and trails the Cardinals by four games.

Although Cincinnati has hovered around the .500 mark all season, Manager Dave Bristol contends. "This is too good a club. Lots of good things are going to happen."

The Reds, who took the day off Thursday, have won their last two games over hard-hitting Atlanta. Performances by Jim Maloney, Gary Nolan, Lee May and Tony Perez have been encouraging.

Maloney, who suffered from arm trouble early this year, has given up only 11 hits and four runs in his last three outings.

Also bothered this spring by arm trouble, Gary Nolan pitched twice within the last two weeks and posted three-hitters both times. In his first official appearance of the season on May 31, Nolan hurled six innings against Philadelphia and gave up only three runs—two earned—in picking up a victory.

Nolan appeared to be in top form Wednesday as he blanked Atlanta 10-0 on three hits.

May and Perez, both trying to break out of slumps, supplied much of the power in Cincinnati's 10-0 decision over the Braves. May slugged a homer for Cincinnati's first two runs, besides hitting a single, and Perez keyed a six-run fifth invals such as Michigan State, 38,100, and Indiana, 24,100.

"We should rewrite our contracts with some of these schools," an athletic department spokesman said. "With such big enrollments, these schools fill half of their stadiums with students and we take only about 50 cents for each."

The Irish, with a stadium seating capacity of 59,075, has found it necessary to raise its ticket prices to $7, highest in the area, compared with $5 four years ago. It's a sellout every game.

The athletic budget has risen from $900,000 in 1963-64 to $2,000,000 projected for 1968-69. The latter figures include a new $8.6 million field house and convocation center, replacing the old field house built in 1938. Notre Dame is low key compared with some of its rivals. There are no booster clubs. All alumni contributions are funneled into the university with no preferential treatment for sports.

There are no special quarters for football players, no training table except for the evening meal in season. The Irish shun bowl games, having played last Jan. 1, 1925, in the Rose Bowl.

Thirty-one full football scholarships were given last year. Five were awarded in basketball, two in tennis, two in golf, none for swimming, fencing nor wrestling.

The Notre Dame coaching staff is about half the size of Alabama's—six varsity assistants, one freshman and two graduate aides. Recruiting is intense and well organized.

As a national team, the pride of the subway alumni, the Irish have hundreds of volunteer scouts, always eager to push a prime local prospect.

"We get hundreds of letters," said Parseghian, a dark-eyed Armenian who came to Notre Dame from Northwestern. "We divide the country into six areas. We assign a coach to each area and check them all out."

Two Champs Eligible for State Fair

COLUMBUS — A pair of 1967 Season Champions head the list of eligibles to the rich Ohio State Fair harness racing program, August 26, 27, 28. Owners of 340 two and three-year-old trotters and pacers made final pre-race payments of $50 to keep their horses eligible for more than $100,000 in State Fair purse money.

Fulla Napoleon, bred by H. M. Fuller, McConnelsville, tops a strong Director of Agriculture Pace eligibles list. The New York-owned three-year-old sped to a 1:58 clocking for the mile last year to take national honors as the swiftest two-year-old of the year.

Other top-rated three-year-old pacers include Nob Hill, bred by Hill Distributing Co., Columbus, winner of the Buckeye State Pace last year, and Moondowner, the first three-year-old to beat two-minutes this year. The latter is owned by Polen Coalmont Farm, Hopedale.

The champion two-year-old trotting filly, on a half-mile track, in 1967, Ole Hanover, is among the 71 remaining eligibles for the famed Ohio State Trot. Owned by Mrs. Samuel Huttenbaben of Cincinnati, Ole Hanover, a $37,000 purchase as a 1966 yearling, earned $55,000 last year. Jim Hackett, winning driver in the 1967 Little Brown Jug, is trainer-driver for the 2:01 4-5 trotter.

Fashion Hill, winner of the 1967 Ohio State Trot, trained and driven by Del Cameron, winning driver of the Hambletonian also is slated to return for Governor's Cup competition.

The Buckeye State Pace, a race for two-year-olds, has 123 still eligible, while the companion two-year-old event, the Ohio State Trot, has 78 for which the final $50 pre-starting payment was made.

The Indians have won all six of their games with the White Sox this season and have given up only five runs in the 61 innings played between the two teams.
The grandstand managers probably had some questions they would have liked to ask Dark, such as: Why was Jose Azcue in the cleanup spot?
"The truth is that I think Joe is one of the best hitters we have," Dark explained when asked the question by newsmen. "He'll be in the fourth spot occasionally. Tonight I was trying to shake things up to get more runs."
Azcue got three singles in five trips, but did not drive in any runs.
Sonny Siebert, the Tribe's starting pitcher, had the peculiar distinction of knocking himself out of the box by opening the 10th inning with a double.
"Yes, if he hadn't got that hit he would have stayed in as my pitcher," said Dark, who used a pinch runner for Siebert.
The Indians didn't score that inning and Sonny didn't get the victory. It went to Rohr (1-1), who set the White Sox down in order in the 11th.
The Indians open a three-game series with the league-leading Detroit Tigers in the Motor City tonight, but are 2 1/2 games behind the Tigers and also will have to sweep that series to take over first place.

Three major league baseball games scheduled for Saturday were postponed and none of the others will start until after the funeral. Two Sunday games also were put off. Today's schedule remains intact.
Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert ordered the postponement of Saturday games in Washington and New York and directed that the start of all other contests be delayed until after the burial.
Three games scheduled for the afternoon were changed to night contests. But the Chicago Cubs, whose Wrigley Field has no lights, were forced to postpone their game with Atlanta.
The Mets' players took two ballots Thursday and voted unanimously both times not to play Saturday. The Giants had scheduled Saturday as Bat Day, a club promotion, and a crowd of more than 30,000 was expected.
The Mets' front office backed up the players 100 per cent. Both M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board, and Johnny Murphy, vice president and general manager, said they were in complete sympathy with the Mets' players.
Under baseball law, the Giants can insist that the game be played and can claim a forfeit if the Mets fail to appear.
The Giants originally announced the game would be played at 4 p.m., PDT, instead of 1 p.m.
Elsewhere, the American Zone Davis Cup tennis final at Charlotte, N.C., between the United States and Ecuador will go on as scheduled. So will the Speedway Open Golf Tournament at Indianapolis, Ind.
Belmont Park canceled today's racing program, which included the 68th annual Grand National Steeplechase. The race will be run next Friday. Belmont wanted to cancel Saturday's card, as well.
The state gets about $500,000 in tax revenue from a normal Saturday at Belmont.
However, eight New York State tracks—two thoroughbred and six harness plants—canceled today's programs.
In California, where Sen. Kennedy was assassinated, the state commission ruled that Bay Meadows, Golden Gate Fields and Hollywood Park would operate today and Saturday.
The Emile Griffith-Andy Heilman 12-round middleweight fight at Oakland was postponed from tonight to Tuesday night. The President's Cup Regatta, a Washington, D.C., fixture for hydroplanes, has been postponed indefinitely. It was scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Paul Popovich doubled off Ron Kline for two runs charged to loser Tommie Sisk, 2-2, and Tom Haller and Bob Baiey each singled in runs.
The Mets completed their first series sweep—three games—since July, 1966, as Dick Selma, 5-0, became the first Met to win five games in a row. He needed help from Ron Taylor in the seventh. Ed Charles slammed two homers for three New York runs off Ken Holtzman, 4-4.
Hart's homers and six runs batted in for San Francisco made him the league's top home run hitter with 11 and among the leaders in RBI with 29. They also helped Juan Marichal win his 10th game, tops in the majors. Marichal, who has lost twice, scattered seven hits.

Prairie Squaws Hold Annual Awards Banquet

Prairie Squaws Bowling League held its awards banquet Monday at Wardell Party Home. Ginny Davis, president of the group, presented trophies.
First place with most games won was team four, composed of Barbara Betts, Marilyn Arledge and Nancy Strawser. Second place for high total pins was team two, composed of Rosemary Flowers, Catherine Hartley and Charlotte Coleman.
High average was Barbara Betts' 141. High game trophy went to Gerry Diltz with a 233. High series was Rosemary Flowers' 529. Helen Weaver was presented the low average trophy with a 114. Most improved bowler was Linda Johnson, who added 11 pins to her average.
Club pins for 200 games went to Charlotte Coleman, Jean Coleman and Barbara Betts. Pins for 225 games went to Rosemary Flowers and Gerry Diltz. Pins for 500 series were awarded to Gerry Diltz, Violet Clifton and Rosemary Flowers.
Ginny Davis was presented a flower arrangement for her work as president. Centerpieces were won by Martha O'Dell and Barbara VanBuskirk.
Officers will remain the same for next year's season. They are Ginny Davis, president; Olive Lovett, vice president; Rosemary Flowers, secretary-treasurer; and Barbara Betts, sergeant at arms.

Notre Dame Endures Money Squeeze

(Fifth in six-part series)
By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — As Notre Dame's head football coach Ara Parseghian pores over his desk, the eyes of the late Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy glare down from the wall of the tight upstairs office in the Rockne Memorial Building.
Next door can be heard the whirring of movie cameras and down the hall the clatter of action on a half dozen indoor handball courts.
Across the way, towering young giants still dress in the dingy catacombs of the 37-year-old Notre Dame Stadium, each day passing a plaque memorializing Rockne's famed exhortation to "Win one for the Gipper."
Football at Notre Dame is subdued grandeur. It keeps pace with the jet age present without losing the links to its colorful past.
The independent Fighting Irish traditionally play the toughest schedule of any college team in the country and, except for rare lapses, have managed to be a constant top contender. Since 1924, when the ratings began, they have won nine national crowns and retired two champions trophies by winning each three times. They were No. 1 in 1966, fifth last year.
Located in the heart of the Middle West, the Irish find themselves natural rivals with the powerful Big Ten, with its swelling student populations, 50,000 to 101,000 seat stadiums and multimillion-dollar athletic budgets.
Although Big Ten members play before an average of 60,000 fans a game they, as many other big time universities, are experiencing financial difficulties in sports because of skyrocketing inflation.
Notre Dame is managing to operate in the black.
"Our sports programs, even football, are operated as just another part of the university life," explained Herb Jones, the athletic business manager. "We don't have a separate athletic fund. All our money goes into the school treasury. The school is responsible for meeting our budget."
"We pay our own way."
Unlike a majority of other universities, Notre Dame has not had an astronomical climb in enrollment. The campus count is 7,100—compared with around 5,000 after World War II—and well below the enrollment of rivals such as Michigan State, 38,100, and Indiana, 24,100.
"We should rewrite our contracts with some of these schools," an athletic department spokesman said. "With such big enrollments, these schools fill half of their stadiums with students and we take only about 50 cents for each."
The Irish, with a stadium seating capacity of 59,075, has found it necessary to raise its ticket prices to $7, highest in the area, compared with $5 four years ago. It's a sellout every game.
The athletic budget has risen from $900,000 in 1963-64 to $2,000,000 projected for 1968-69. The latter figures include a new $8.6 million field house and convocation center, replacing the old field house built in 1898.
Notre Dame is low key compared with some of its rivals. There are no booster clubs. All alumni contributions are funneled into the university with no preferential treatment for sports.
There are no special quarters for football players, no training table except for the evening meal in season. The Irish shun bowl games, having played last Jan. 1, 1925, in the Rose Bowl.
Thirty-one full football scholarships were given last year. Five were awarded in basketball, two in tennis, two in golf, none for swimming, fencing nor wrestling.
The Notre Dame coaching staff is about half the size of Alabama's—six varsity assistants, one freshman and two graduate aides. Recruiting is intense and well organized.
As a national team, the pride of the subway alumni, the Irish have hundreds of volunteer scouts, always eager to push a prime local prospect.
"We get hundreds of letters," said Parseghian, a dark-eyed Armenian who came to Notre Dame from Northwestern. "We divide the country into six areas. We assign a coach to each area and check them all out."

Reds' Manager Optimistic As Cardinal Series Starts

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rein-vigorated by recent performances of four mainstays, the Cincinnati Reds take on league-leading St. Louis here in a four-game series starting tonight.
Cincinnati, with a team batting average of .263 that tops the majors, stands 25-24 on the season and trails the Cardinals by four games.
Although Cincinnati has hovered around the .500 mark all season, Manager Dave Bristol contends, "This is too good a club. Lots of good things are going to happen."
The Reds, who took the day off Thursday, have won their last two games over hard-hitting Atlanta. Performances by Jim Maloney, Gary Nolan, Lee May and Tony Perez have been encouraging.
Maloney, who suffered from arm trouble early this year, has given up only 11 hits and four runs in his last three outings.
Also bothered this spring by arm trouble, Gary Nolan pitched twice within the last two weeks and posted three-hitters both times. In his first official appearance of the season on May 31, Nolan hurled six innings against Philadelphia and gave up only three runs—two earned—in picking up a victory.
Nolan appeared to be in top form Wednesday as he blanked Atlanta 10-0 on three hits.
May and Perez, both trying to break out of slumps, supplied much of the power in Cincinnati's 10-0 decision over the Braves. May slugged a homer for Cincinnati's first two runs, besides hitting a single, and Perez keyed a six-run fifth inning with a two-run single. He slammed a two-run homer in the sixth inning.
Good crowds are expected at Crosley Field this weekend, as more than 60,000 seats have been sold for the games.

Two Champs Eligible for State Fair

COLUMBUS — A pair of 1967 Season Champions head the list of eligibles to the rich Ohio State Fair harness racing program, August 26, 27, 28. Owners of 340 two and three-year-old trotters and pacers made final pre-race payments of $50 to keep their horses eligible for more than $100,000 in State Fair purse money.
Fulla Napoleon, bred by J. M. Fuller, McConnelville, tops a strong Director of Agriculture Pace eligibles list. The New York-owned three-year-old sped to a 1:58 clocking for the mile last year to take national honors as the swiftest two-year-old of the year.
Other top-rated three-year-old pacers include Nob Hill, bred by Hill Distributing Co., Columbus, winner of the Buckeye State Pace last year, and Moondowner, the first three-year-old to beat two-minutes this year. The latter is owned by Polen Coalmont Farm, Hopedale.
The champion two-year-old trotting filly, on a half-mile track, in 1967, Ole Hanover, is among the 71 remaining eligibles for the famed Ohio State Trot. Owned by Mrs. Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati, Ole Hanover, a $37,000 purchase as a 1966 yearling, earned $55,000 last year. Jim Hackett, winning driver in the 1967 Little Brown Jug, is trainer-driver for the 2:01 4-5 trotter.
Fashion Hill, winner of the 1967 Ohio State Trot, trained and driven by Del Cameron, winning driver of the Hambletonian also is slated to return for Governor's Cup competition.
The Buckeye State Pace, a race for two-year-olds, has 123 still eligible, while the companion two-year-old event, the Ohio State Trot, has 78 for which the final $50 pre-starting payment was made.

Long Ball Common Sight In AL Circuit Thursday

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Galump... Galump... Galump.

The familiar sound of 6-foot-7, 260-pound Frank Howard tip-toeing around the bases was No. 1 on the American League hit parade in May when the big guy hammered 15 home runs.

Howard's tune is still getting plenty of play this month, but all of a sudden he's got company.

Home runs dominated four American League games Thursday with only Cleveland's 2-1, 11 inning victory over Chicago free of the long ball.

Howard and Ron Hansen homered for Washington's 4-3 victory over Oakland, Minnesota trimmed New York 2-0 on Tony Oliva's homer, Norm Cash and Jim Northrup homered, helping Detroit stand off a three-homer barrage to defeat Baltimore 8-6.

Howard socked his 22nd home run of the year and second in as many nights in the first inning against Oakland. An inning later, Hansen added his No. 5 as the Senators jumped to a 4-0 lead.

Crampton Grabs Two-Stroke Lead At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bruce Crampton of Australia carried a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $100,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament.

Crampton rattled off four birdies on the back nine Thursday and finished with a four-under-par 68.

Billy Casper, PGA leading money winner, was tied for second with a 70 after being penalized two strokes when his caddy raked a sand trap before Casper hit on the third hole.

The efforts by Crampton and Casper, who played together, overshadowed the fine shooting of John Lively and Masters champion Bob Goalby.

Lively, 28, of Canton, Tex., shot a hole-in-one on the par 3 204-yard 17th hole, and Goalby fired his first double-eagle on the par 5 503-yard seventh hole. Casper, Goalby and Lively were locked in a seven-way tie for second place with Speedway defending champ Frank Beard, Don Fairfield, Jim Grant and Bobby Cole.

Jack Tuthill, PGA tournament director, said a special service in memory of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will precede the tournament's final round Sunday. Players will wear black tabs on their clothes as part of the national day of mourning proclaimed by President Johnson.

Lively hit a three-iron that bounced on a bank in front of the green and rolled into the cup. He birdied the next hole with an 18-foot putt.

Goalby scored his double-eagle with a driver and a four-wood. Fairfield eagled the same hole with a 60-yard pitch shot.

Frank Bertina worked five shutout innings with the bulge but the A's knocked him out in the sixth, scoring two runs on Mike Hershberger's pinch triple and three singles. Dennis Higgins pitched out of the jam and another in the seventh when he struck out Ted Kubiak and Rick Monday with the tying run on third base.

Oliva unloaded in the second inning against the Yankees after Harmon Killebrew had singled. That was enough for Dave Boswell and Al Worthington who combined for Minnesota's shutout.

The homer was Oliva's seventh of the year, and, like Howard, his second in two days.

Boswell worked into the seventh inning but wilted in 93 degree heat and Worthington finished up.

Northrup connected for a two-run shot in the first inning for Detroit but the Red Sox bounced back with Carl Yastrzemski's ninth homer, a three-run shot.

Cash got those right back with a three-run homer in the third inning and Joe Sparda held the margin for his first victory over the Sox since 1965. Fred Lasher came out of the bullpen to get the final out, fanning Elston Howard with the bases-loaded in the ninth.

Elrod Hendricks had driven in three runs with a homer and single as Baltimore took a 3-0 edge into the seventh inning against California. But the Angels erupted for seven runs on eight hits with doubles by Tom Seaver, Paul Schaal, and Rick Reinhardt the big blows. Don Mincher drove in two of the runs with a key single.

The Orioles came back with Don Buford's pinch homer and a two-run shot by Curt Blefary in the ninth but the rally fell short. Cleveland took its fourth straight one-run game from the White Sox and dumped Chicago into the American League basement.

Pinch hitter Vic Davalillo broke up this one in the 11th inning with a two-out single that scored Duke Sims from second. Sims had opened the inning with a walk and moved up on a sacrifice.

The Sox managed just four runs in 43 innings during the four games. They had just come off a sweep from Minnesota in which they won four games with just 10 runs.

641 Rookies Drafted by Big Leagues

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Tim Foli, Pete Broberg, Martin Cotti, Thurman Munson. The names don't mean a thing to the big league baseball fan.

But neither did Rick Monday, Nolan Ryan, Johnny Bench, De' Unser, Ken Holtzman, Joe Coleman and Stan Bahnsen in 1965, when they were picked in the first free agent draft.

With baseball heading into another expansion era and 24 clubs scheduled to play next season, the latest crop of high school and college graduates will have a chance for rapid advancement. A total of 641 players were drafted Thursday in 28 rounds. The draft continues today.

Foli, a 17-year-old shortstop from Notre Dame High School in Sherman Oaks, Calif.—his home is Canoga Park, Calif.—was the No. 1 pick Thursday in the annual spring harvest of young talent. Foli went to the New York Mets, who had first choice because of their 10th place finish in the National League last season.

The Oakland Athletics, who had earned the No. 2 selection by finishing last in the American League before they moved from Kansas City to Oakland, used their draft rights to take Pete Broberg, son of the former Dartmouth basketball great, Gus Broberg.

Although Broberg may be headed for his dad's alma mater, the A's hope to convince the 6-foot-3, 195-pound right-handed pitcher from Palm Beach, Fla., to play baseball in the summer while attending school.

Cotti is a 17-year-old catcher from Hutchinson Tech in Buffalo, N.Y., who was drafted by the Houston Astros. Munson is a 21-year-old catcher from Canton, Ohio, who was recommended to the New York Yankees by ex-Yank Gene Woodling after he scouted him at Kent State University.

One of the most publicized high school players in the nation, Charlie Dush of Avondale High in Decatur, Ga., was drafted by the San Francisco Giants for their Phoenix farm in the Class Triple A round.

Dush is the target of a reported 200 colleges as a star quarterback in football. He also does a turn as a pitcher-outfielder-infielder.

There is not obligation by any drafted player to sign. However, he can't deal with any other club. If he does not sign, his name goes back into the pool for the next draft Feb. 1.

Ohio Boys On Pro Lists

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans selected Thursday in baseball's free agent draft included:

Thurman Munson, Canton, catcher, by New York Yankees; Rich McKinney, Troy, shortstop-third baseman, Chicago White Sox; Jim Hairston, Dayton, outfielder, St. Louis; Danny Landis, Columbus, pitcher, Atlanta (Richmond); Rickey Rogers, New Carlisle, shortstop, Washington (Savannah); James Sams, Cuyahoga Falls, pitcher, Pittsburgh (York).

The first player selected by Montreal's new expansion team in the free agent draft was Mike Swain, a pitcher from Ohio State University.

The Cleveland Indians drafted four Ohio boys — pitchers Tom Stauffer of Castalia and Steve Stone of Lyndhurst, outfielder Bob Shaps of Shaker Heights and catcher Larry Doby Johnson of Cleveland.

In addition, Cleveland drafted shortstop-outfielder Mike Weaver of Jacksonville, Fla.; third baseman John Parks of Lakewood, Calif., and pitcher Robert Kaiser of Ogden, Utah.

The Cincinnati Reds drafted pitcher Tim Grant of Boykin, Va., pitcher Milton Wilcox of Oklahoma City, Okla., and pitcher Richard Lenard of LaPorte, Ind.

Long Ball Common Sight In AL Circuit Thursday

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Galump ... Galump ... Galump.

The familiar sound of 6-foot-7, 260-pound Frank Howard tipping around the bases was No. 1 on the American League hit parade in May when the big guy hammered 15 home runs.

Howard's tune is still getting plenty of play this month, but all of a sudden he's got company.

Home runs dominated four American League games Thursday with only Cleveland's 2-1, 11 inning victory over Chicago free of the long ball.

Howard and Ron Hansen homered for Washington's 4-3 victory over Oakland, Minnesota trimmed New York 2-0 on Tony Oliva's homer, Norm Cash and Jim Northrup homered, helping Detroit past Boston 5-3, and California stood off a three-homer barrage to defeat Baltimore 8-6.

Howard socked his 22nd home run of the year and second in as many nights in the first inning against Oakland. An inning later, Hansen added his No. 5 as the Senators jumped to a 4-0 lead.

Crampton Grabs Two-Stroke Lead At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bruce Crampton of Australia carried a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $100,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament.

Crampton rattled off four birdies on the back nine Thursday and finished with a four-under-par 68.

Billy Casper, PGA leading money winner, was tied for second with a 70 after being penalized two strokes when his caddy raked a sand trap before Casper hit on the third hole.

The efforts by Crampton and Casper, who played together, overshadowed the fine shooting of John Lively and Masters champion Bob Goalby.

Lively, 28, of Canton, Tex., shot a hole-in-one on the par 3 204-yard 17th hole, and Goalby fired his first double-eagle on the par 5 503-yard seventh hole.

Casper, Goalby and Lively were locked in a seven-way tie for second place with Speedway defending champ Frank Beard, Don Fairfield, Jim Grant and Bobby Cole.

Jack Tuthill, PGA tournament director, said a special service in memory of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will precede the tournament's final round Sunday.

Players will wear black tabs on their clothes as part of the national day of mourning proclaimed by President Johnson.

Lively hit a three-iron that bounced on a bank in front of the green and rolled into the cup. He birdied the next hole with an 18-foot putt.

Goalby scored his double-eagle with a driver and a four-wood. Fairfield eagled the same hole with a 60-yard pitch shot.

Frank Bertaina worked five shutout innings with the bulge but the A's knocked him out in the sixth, scoring two runs on Mike Hershberger's pinch triple and three singles. Dennis Higgins pitched out of the jam and another in the seventh when he struck out Ted Kubiak and Rick Monday with the tying run on third base.

Oliva unloaded in the second inning against the Yankees after Harmon Killebrew had singled. That was enough for Dave Boswell and Al Worthington who combined for Minnesota's shutout.

The homer was Oliva's seventh of the year, and, like Howard, his second in two days.

Boswell worked into the seventh inning but wilted in 93 degree heat and Worthington finished up.

Northrup connected for a two-run shot in the first inning for Detroit but the Red Sox bounced back with Carl Yastrzemski's ninth homer, a three-run shot.

Cash got those right back with a three-run homer in the third inning and Joe Sparda held the margin for his first victory over the Sox since 1965. Fred Lasher came out of the bullpen to get the final out, fanning Elston Howard with the bases-loaded in the ninth.

Elrod Hendricks had driven in three runs with a homer and single as Baltimore took a 3-0 edge into the seventh inning against California. But the Angels erupted for seven runs on eight hits with doubles by Tom Satirano, Paul Schaes, and Rick Reinhardt the big blows. Don Mincher drove in two of the runs with a key single.

The Orioles came back with Don Buford's pinch homer and a two-run shot by Curt Blefary in

IMPROVES WITH AGE — A 30-year-old former school teacher from Smithfield, Utah, Jay Silvester is caught in action at Modesto, Calif., as he uncorked a world mark in the discus throw with a heave of 218 feet, 4 inches. It broke the former mark of 213 feet 11 1/2 inches held by Ludvik Daneke, a Czech.

Head Start Program Set

Outreach Workers for the Pickaway County Community Action Organization (PCCAO) are seeking students for the Head Start program to be held in five county schools.

They are Washington Twp., Scioto, Ashville, Williamsport, and South Court Street.

Head Start, a federally funded program for children about to enter the first grade, will run from June 24 to Aug. 16, according to PCCAO Director Mike Flynn. The pre-school program is designed to improve health and physical abilities of children, develop self-confidence and increase verbal and conceptual skills.

Parents from the previously mentioned areas who believe their children are eligible for the program should contact the PCCAO office at 520 S. Court St.

Outreach workers will be recruiting from these areas.

The Internal Revenue Service has advised us that any individual who suffered a loss due to the flood, and this would include those who suffered property damage due to flooded basements, can deduct part of such loss from his 1968 income taxes. This loss deduction must be taken when the return is filed for the 1968 taxes and records should be made to verify these losses.

The possibility of receiving Federal assistance for the City is also being investigated under the Federal Disaster Act of 1950. Such assistance could conceivably include the clearing of debris from the creek as well as assistance in the regaining of the damage to City property and streets caused by the flood.

Meanwhile, the City Service Department is trying to make routine repairs and to clean the streets and storm sewers. As might be expected, the abnormal amount of water caused damage not only to the areas that were flooded, but also to many other places. We are trying to repair the holes and clean the streets as fast as possible. We hope with your patience to get to every place that needs our attention, however, if we do miss an area, please call us and bring it to our attention.

I would like just briefly to comment on the events that occurred early Wednesday morning in Los Angeles, California. Regardless of political conviction or choice of candidate, our nation has received a great blow. For the third time in less than five years a nationally known leader has been struck down by an assassin's bullet in the United States.

We extend our sympathy to the Kennedy family in this great time of tragedy. But we must each do more than this. Each of us must take new resolves to prevent such violence. We must never restrict dissent which does not interfere with other's rights, but we must stand firm against those whose dissent takes the form of hatred and violence. A method to change things we do not agree with is provided under our constitutions and it is provided within a framework of law and order.

The Circleville - Jefferson Church or Christ in Christian Union will hold its Vacation Bible School June 10-15, Monday thru Saturday, at 9 a.m. A demonstration school will be on Sunday Morning, June 16, for parents and friends.

The Mayor's Report

Assistance to Flood Victims

By MAYOR RICHARD L. GERHARDT

Earlier this week a meeting was held in Lancaster to discuss and give information to those who suffered losses in the recent flood disaster. I asked Chief of Police Robert Temple to attend this meeting in behalf of the City and to give a report to me so that this information could be relayed on to you.

From his report and the information bulletins given to me, the following observations can be made:

Any individual who suffered property loss whether it be to their home or furniture and fixtures, is eligible and should apply for a SBA loan, if they need it. The loans are low interest bearing with repayment provisions available for over a period of years. The Small Business Administration is handling individual resident property owners applications as well as those of small business and farm operators who are eligible.

The closest place for applications to be picked up is in the temporary office located at the Saltcreek Valley Bank in Laurelville, Ohio, (phone 469-6860). You may also apply at the SBA office at 50 W. Gay St. in Columbus, (phone 469-6860).

In addition the Red Cross, Farmer's Home Administration, F.H.A., and Veterans Administration can lend help to private individuals who have suffered loss. Educational information relative to preparing oods and to sanitation can be supplied by the County Extension Agent, Mr. George Hamrick, or by calling the City Health Department.

The Internal Revenue Service has advised us that any individual who suffered a loss due to the flood, and this would include those who suffered property damage due to flooded basements, can deduct part of such loss from his 1968 income taxes. This loss deduction must be taken when the return is filed for the 1968 taxes and records should be made to verify these losses.
